

SATAN'S LITTLE SEASON

Lanthano Nov 20th, 2025

THE SIGNS ARE EVERYWHERE. THE NUMBER OF THE BEAST, THE EUPHRATES RIVER DRYING UP, the signs are all over. And we all are very aware that we need to stay ready for the return of Christ.

But, here's an idea. One that might sound heretical at first, but one that proves intriguing. And don't look away, don't give up immediately when you read what I am about to write. The truth is truth, and nothing is more dangerous than judging what ultimate truth is based on feelings.

The thought is this: could the Tribulation be past already?

Or more clearly: where are we in the grand timeline?

Could we be living in a time after the great Tribulation that Christ warned of? Or is this too insane to possibly be true? Well, let's try and find this out.

NOTES

My experience is that this idea sounds absurd.

When I first heard it, I too thought it was impossible. I came home and used shoes and some books to show my wife the timeline theory and to make it make sense in my own head.

But the more I thought about this idea, put arguments against it, and brought up things that never fit the more modern consensus, the more I realized that this idea was not going to leave.

This argument, this Satan's Little Season idea, is very robust. It does not cave in to arguments, nor does it dismiss them. It is an incredible biblical framework that few others live up to.

This idea may not be perfect, but it is infinitely closer to the truth than the modern idea.

Still, the single biggest issue most people will have with this is likely interpreting Revelation either non-literally, or in a way they weren't taught or raised doing. However, if one can interpret Revelation according to the way that it was written, and not our with our modern mindset, they will see that the whole of Scripture (not just Revelation) tells a different story than we see.

With that said, would you do me a favor? While reading this, do not argue against it in your head. Look at this as if it very well could be true. And once you have read the entire thing, and seen this side clearly for what it claims to be, then argue against it. Then ruthlessly attempt to tear this idea in pieces.

And if you come out with the idea that this argument was easily destroyed, then please contact me. Because you must have a vital piece of information that I currently do not have. However, if you dismiss this argument. If you can't fight this battle and choose indifference. If you go the path of either not reading this fully, at all, or in the mindset that it cannot be true.

Then you never gave this idea a chance. And that is fine, you can make whatever choice you wish. This is my advice for you if you are open to change. Not for if you are closed.

PART I: BIBLICAL

This section will focus on the evidence that presents itself in scripture.
For the physical evidence in the physical word around us, please see Part II.

70 WEEKS

Let us look at the timeline given in the Bible. Daniel gives us a valuable prophecy; a countdown to the Messiah.

Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, to finish the transgression, and to make an end of sins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the most Holy.
Daniel 9:24

When Daniel says 70 weeks, it is commonly assumed he is saying that Israel has 70 weeks of years. Where each day in the 70 weeks is a year, and the total is 490 years.

Daniel states that Israel has 70 weeks (of years) to do the following:

- Finish the transgression
- Make an end of sins
- Make reconciliation for iniquity
- Bring in everlasting righteousness
- Seal up the vision and prophecy
- And anoint the most Holy

Daniel isn't saying that Israel's sin and transgressions must reach a certain point. He's almost telling them that they have a deadline now. Then Daniel goes on to say in the next verse:

Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in troublous times.

Daniel 9:25

What we have is this:

- 7 weeks (49 years) to rebuild the Temple.
- 62 weeks (434 years) from the Temple command going forth, to the Messiah.
- 1 week (7 years) of the great Tribulation.

70 total weeks (490 years)

And after threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself: and the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war desolations are determined.

Daniel 9:26

This is a perfect prophecy of Jesus Christ. So we know that the week 62 lines up with His death.

And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate.

Daniel 9:27

And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days [3.5 years].

Daniel 12:11

Here, Daniel is pointing out that the sacrificial system will be caused to cease during the last week. And in Daniel 12:11, you see that this last week is the time of the great Tribulation.

Daniel has given us a timeline to the rebuilding of the Temple, to the death of Jesus Christ, and to the great Tribulation.

But hold up, there's supposed to be 2,000 years between the 69th and 70th week. Because Christianity "knows" that the Tribulation hasn't yet come, and Christ has not reigned for a 1,000 years, there must be 2,000 years added in between the second to last and final weeks.

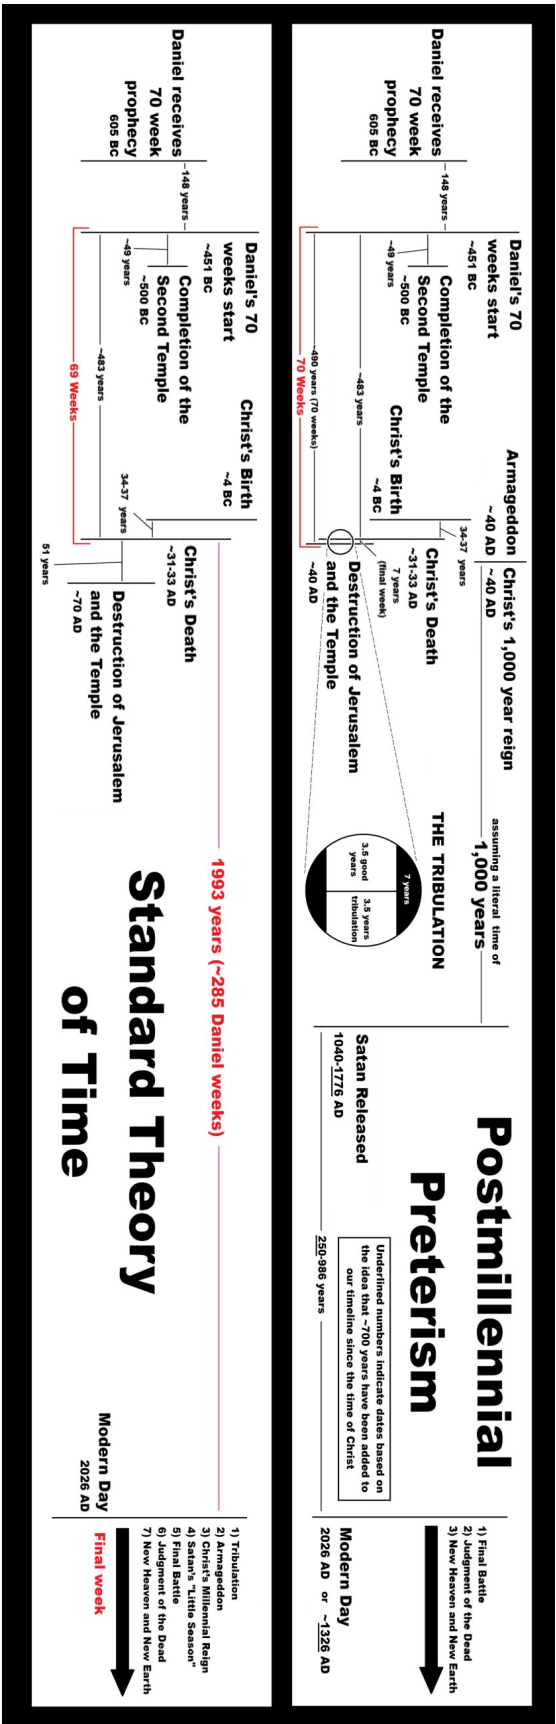

Christianity has added more than 280 weeks between the final two weeks of Daniel's prophecy. Wouldn't it make more sense if his prophecy just counted down to the Tribulation and didn't have a gap that he forgets to ever mention? Yes, yes it would. And here's how that's possible.

TIMELINE

Looking at the timeline to the right, close observers will notice that on the Standard Theory timeline puts the fall of Jerusalem in 70 AD and that it doesn't line up with the Tribulation at around 40 AD.

But according to the fringe Caligula-destruction theory, the Jerusalem Temple was effectively and prophetically destroyed in 40 AD the moment Emperor Gaius Caligula issued his imperial edict ordering his gilded statue erected in the Holy of Holies itself, thereby committing the ultimate "abomination that maketh desolate" (Daniel 9:27 and Matthew 24:15).

Jewish historians record that the people abandoned the fields and prepared for death rather than allow the desecration. When Petronius advanced with multiple legions in the winter of 40 AD, the priesthood reportedly halted daily sacrifices in anticipatory mourning (exactly as Daniel predicted), and some fringe theorists insist the Romans actually breached the walls, damaged the sanctuary, and began dismantling portions of the structure before Caligula's assassination in the beginning of 41 AD suddenly halted the operation. The later 70 AD narrative, they claim, is a deliberate Flavian-era exaggeration that recycled the real 40 AD destruction to hide the fact that Jesus' generation prophecy was fulfilled precisely on time.

THIS GENERATION SHALL NOT PASS

One giant problem that Jesus creates for someone who thinks that the Tribulation is still to come, is this: He told specific people that they would die until He came back. He told His disciples this, He told the High Priest this, and he told random people this. Here are the spots where He just told people that they would see Him and His kingdom coming one day.

- Disciples (Jesus speaking directly with His disciples)
 - Matthew 10:23: But when they persecute you in this city, flee ye into another: for verily I say unto you, Ye shall not have gone over the cities of Israel, till the Son of man be come.
 - Matthew 16:28: Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom.
 - Mark 9:1: And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power.
 - Luke 9:27: But I tell you of a truth, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the kingdom of God.
- High Priest and Sanhedrin (Jesus addressing the Jewish leadership directly)
 - Matthew 26:64: Jesus saith unto him, Thou hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.
 - Mark 14:62: And Jesus said, I am: and ye shall see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.
- Olivet Discourse audience (crowds and disciples listening together)
 - Matthew 24:34: Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled.
 - Mark 13:30: Verily I say unto you, That this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done.
 - Luke 21:32: Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled.

Here are the arguments (and there counterarguments) against these verses, and how they don't necessarily mean what they sound like:

- Argument: When Jesus says "this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done." He is saying that about the generation that first sees these signs. He isn't saying it's His current generation.
 - Counterargument: he was talking to His disciples, and only three of them (Peter, James, and John) saw the Transfiguration. So you could argue that Jesus only was talking to those three, whatever. I can't argue that, you win. Same thing with the Olivet Discourse, you could argue that Christ was just talking directly to those three disciples again. But what about when Jesus told the High Priest the same thing? He definitely wasn't there for Jesus Christ's transfiguration.
- Argument: When He says that "There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in his kingdom." He is referencing His transfiguration. He just means they'll see that.
 - Counterargument: two things. First, if it was for the generation that saw these signs of which Jesus spoke about, it would still be His generation. Because just about everything Jesus warned His disciples and people about came to pass within years of His resurrection. And two, even if this explains away the three verses that have this specific wording. You still have six other verses to deal with that are worded differently.

The biggest thing is there is literally a verse that says they don't even have time to go through all of Israel before Christ will be back:

But when they persecute you in this city, flee ye into another: for verily I say unto you, Ye shall not have gone over the cities of Israel, till the Son of man be come.

Matthew 10:23

In the end, you can probably find a way of making it work out for you. You can find a reason for each verse to make it make sense for your argument, but I doubt you will be able to say that you have a more straightforward plain reading of the scripture than me.

TRIBULATION SIGNS

You may be wondering about the signs of the Tribulation, and how we are seeing them. You're probably thinking about how it's impossible that the Tribulation has already happened because we didn't see the signs back then, and now we are. Here's a list of what we are seeing:

- Rebuilding of the Temple: people watch as the plans for the Temple are laid and Israel attempts to rebuild.
- Resumption of Sacrifices: Jews have plans, and in one case, have actually started to sacrifice again.
- Antichrist authority: many political or religious leaders are speculated to be the Antichrist.
- Mark of the Beast: Digital ID systems, credit cards, cashless payments, vaccines, or microchips speculated to be the mark.
- Persecution of God's people: restrictions or oppression of Christians in various regions.
- Euphrates River drying up: News or theories about the river receding or geopolitical events in the region.
- Global Distress: pandemics, famines, natural disasters, economic instability.

We are seeing all of the above. Theories are everywhere. First, let's check what we are actually looking for in the biblical sense. Here's a list of things that actually need to happen leading up to the Tribulation (please note that the word Antichrist is not in Revelation. What most people consider the Antichrist of the Tribulation is actually likely the head of the Beast):

THE BEAST

- Revelation 13:1-8: And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the name of blasphemy... And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.
- 2 Thessalonians 2:3-4: Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.
- Daniel 7:23-25: Thus he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be diverse from all kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth... And he shall speak great words against the most High, and shall wear out the saints of the most High, and think to change times and laws...

Revelation introduces the Number of the Beast, 666 (or 616 in some Latin manuscripts). This number has been historically associated with Nero Caesar through both Hebrew and Latin gematria. In Hebrew, Neron Kesar (Nero Caesar) equals 666, while the Latin form without the final "n" equals 616. Early church sources, such as Irenaeus (180 AD), note that this identification of Nero as the Beast was widely recognized even in the first century.

Additional historical confirmations of this symbolism appear in classical sources. Suetonius records that Nero dedicated 666 talents of incense during his public games (Suetonius, Nero 39), a symbolic gesture echoing the apocalyptic number. Similarly, the Sibylline Oracles (Books 5 & 8) directly refer to Nero as "666." These data points indicate that early Christians, living under Roman persecution, perceived Nero's reign as the literal fulfillment of Revelation's Beast. From the Bible it can be interpreted that the Beast is a nation. This would put Rome as the Beast of the Tribulation.

This framework would put Nero Caesar as the Antichrist (although not in Revelation). What the Bible says about the Antichrist indicates that the Antichrist is the head figure of the Beast (who the Bible shows to not be a person, but a nation).

THE MARK OF THE BEAST

- Revelation 13:16-18: And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads: And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

The economic control under Nero also finds a historical parallel with Revelation 13:16-17, which describes a "mark" required for buying and selling. Following the Great Fire of Rome in 64 AD, Nero imposed a fire tax, which required the use of his coinage. Jewish collaborators issued certificates (libelli) confirming that citizens had performed sacrifices to Caesar or the Roman gods, effectively marking them as loyal to the emperor. These measures created both a practical and symbolic enforcement mechanism, fulfilling the prophecy of the "mark of the Beast."

FOREHEAD OR RIGHT HAND

Dealing with the mark of the Beast, Revelation 13 says:

And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads: And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

Revelation 13:16-17

Many argue that this proves that the Tribulation must be ahead of us, because there wasn't anything like that before. But that may be a hasty assumption. When reading through the Bible, we encounter passages like this one in Deuteronomy.

And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes.

Deuteronomy 6:8

This passage is dealing with the words of the Law of God. And it is generally understood like this:

- Sign upon the hand: This symbolizes action. Whatever you do (your "hand"), it should reflect obedience to God's commandments. Your deeds are to carry the law.
- Frontlets between the eyes: This symbolizes thought and awareness. Just as frontlets (phylacteries, or tefillin in Jewish practice) are worn on the forehead, it's a reminder to keep God's laws constantly in your mind, guiding your thoughts and decisions.

And the theory goes that Revelation is also using terminology like this. When it says a mark is taken in their right hand or forehead. It is possible that it means something like this.

ABOMINATION DESOLATION OF THE TEMPLE

- Daniel 9:27: And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate.
- Matthew 24:15: When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, (whoso readeth, let him understand:)
- Matthew 24:2: And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.
- Mark 13:14: But when ye shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not, (let him that readeth understand,) then let them that be in Judaea flee to the mountains.

The "Abomination of Desolation" prophesied in Daniel 9:27 and Matthew 24:15 finds historical fulfillment in attempts to impose imperial worship in the Jewish Temple. Caligula, in 39-41 AD, ordered a statue of himself placed in the Temple, demanding it be worshiped. This order represented a literal "talking image" that was to dominate Jewish religious life. Sources such as Philo (Legatio ad Gaium) and Josephus (Antiquities 18.8) document these events, showing the historical precedent for the Revelation depiction of the Beast's image compelling worship.

GREAT TRIBULATION AND MASSIVE DISTRESS

- Matthew 24:21: For then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be.
- Luke 21:23: But woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck, in those days! for there shall be great distress in the land, and wrath upon this people.

Many see the "great distress" as fulfilled between 40 and 70 AD because the period appears, through both conspiratorial and historical lenses, like a coordinated collapse of Judea engineered by Roman power brokers, corrupt priestly elites, and rival Jewish factions, producing suffering so extreme that Josephus repeatedly portrayed it as unmatched in all history. He records Jerusalem turning into a slaughterhouse where gangs murdered civilians daily, corpses filled every house, and the streets ran with blood; famine grew so severe that children starved in their mothers' arms and a mother roasted and ate her own infant; thousands were crucified until crosses ran out; factional leaders tortured people for food; entire neighborhoods burned; the Temple blazed as fighting raged inside its courts; and over one million men, women and children died in the siege itself.

Josephus adds that the city was riddled with terror, betrayal, false prophets, mass executions, civil war inside the walls, and signs in the heavens (chariots and armies in the clouds, a sword-shaped star, and the Temple gate opening by itself) precisely the kinds of catastrophic and supernatural markers Jesus foretold. With Christians fleeing when the Romans first surrounded the city, and the Temple destroyed within the exact generation Christ spoke to, the horrors Josephus records make this era fit the prophecy's intensity exactly.

3.5 YEAR TRIBULATION

- Daniel 7:25: And he shall speak great words against the most High, and shall wear out the saints of the most High, and think to change times and laws: and they shall be given into his hand until a time and times and the dividing of time.
- Daniel 12:7: And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished.
- Revelation 11:2: But the court which is without the temple leave out, and measure it not; for it is given unto the Gentiles: and the holy city shall they tread under foot forty and two months.
- Revelation 11:3: And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth.
- Revelation 12:6: And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there a thousand two hundred and threescore days.
- Revelation 12:14: And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent.
- Revelation 13:5: And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and power was given unto him to continue forty and two months.

This was fulfilled by the Jewish-Roman War that lasted from Nisan 66 AD to Av 70 AD. Revelation's reference to a 3.5 year long time of tribulation is met by this timeline.

FALSE MIRACLES

- Revelation 13:13-14: And he doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men, And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast...

During the time of the Jewish-Roman War, there were individuals who deliberately deceived the people with false miracles to gain followers and influence. Flavius Josephus records an Egyptian prophet who assembled 30,000 people by claiming divine power and promising deliverance, only to lead them into chaos and death. Such figures exploited the fears and hopes of the populace, performing staged signs or making grand claims of supernatural authority to convince people of their legitimacy.

These false miracles stirred crowds, created panic, and encouraged obedience, but ultimately were exposed as manipulations or frauds.

DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM AND TEMPLE

- Matthew 24:2: And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.
- Luke 21:20-24: And when ye shall see Jerusalem compassed with armies, then know that the desolation thereof is nigh. Then let them which are in Judaea flee to the mountains; and let them which are in the midst of it depart out... and they shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations: and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled.
- Mark 13:2: And Jesus answering said unto him, Seest thou these great buildings? there shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

The climax of first-century judgment is the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple in 70 AD (although some estimate closer to the time of Jesus) by Titus, the Roman general who succeeded Nero's imperial policies. Revelation 11:1-13 describes the Temple being measured and trampled for 42 months, precisely matching the duration of the Jewish-Roman War from Nisan 66 AD to Av 70 AD. Similarly, Revelation's references to 1,260 days or 3.5 years correspond with 30-day prophetic months, aligning the biblical timeline with the historical siege (Josephus, Wars 2.18-6.10).

THE FALSE PROPHET

- Revelation 16:13: And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet.
- Revelation 19:20: And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone.
- Revelation 20:10: And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever;.

These passages introduce the False Prophet, described as aiding the Beast and enforcing worship of him. Historically, this role is attributed to imperial cult priests in Asia Minor and to certain Jewish high priests who collaborated with Roman authority.

Josephus (Wars 6.5.3) documents the complicity of high priests like John of Gischala or Jesus ben Gamaliel, who delivered Christians to Roman authorities, enforcing policies that aligned with the interests of the empire. These religious authorities facilitated Nero's oppressive measures and contributed to the social and spiritual corruption that Revelation condemns.

John of Gischala is also the one who ended the sacrifices in the Temple.

GREAT HAIL

- Revelation 8:7: The first angel sounded, and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.
- Revelation 11:19: And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament: and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail.
- Revelation 16:21: And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

In Revelation 16:21, the hailstones are described as weighing about a talent each (75 to 100 pounds) which aligns with the weight of large stones used in Roman catapults and onagers during sieges.

These stones were often white or light-colored (a fact supported by archaeological evidence, historical records, and Josephus' writings). Josephus describes Roman siege engines hurling light-colored stones and sometimes even fiery incendiary materials (Revelation 8:7). When launched, these massive stones would leave a white trail in the sky, either from dust, chalky stone fragments, or scorched earth, and the incendiary stones would carry fire with them, adding both visual terror and destructive power. The imagery of such enormous, fiery projectiles raining from above would have been immediately familiar to a 1st-century audience, making the apocalyptic hail both a symbol of divine judgment and a reflection of the real, crushing force of Roman military technology.

Additionally, the Greek word translated as "hail" in Revelation does not necessarily refer to ice, but can denote any heavy, stone-like projectile falling from the sky. This means that John's vision could describe a phenomenon that resembles either a natural or engineered destruction.

Another thing that might be of value to note, but possibly not. Is that hail of the size mentioned in Revelation is not physically possible (according to our natural understanding). This might lean more into the catapult theory, but one could also claim that this hail would have been an act of God.

TWO WITNESSES

- Revelation 11:3: And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth.
Revelation 11:7: And when they shall have finished their testimony, the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.
Revelation 11:8: And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified.

Ananus ben Ananus and Jesus ben Gamala, murdered in Jerusalem in February AD 68 during the Jewish-Roman War. For approximately forty-two literal months (from the Zealot seizure of the temple in late AD 66 until their deaths), these two repeatedly prophesied doom and pleading for peace with Rome while the Zealots raged against them. From the beginning to end, they prophesied for roughly 3.5 years.

On the night of the 15th or 16th of the month Shebat in the year 68 AD, twenty thousand Idumean troops, secretly admitted by the Zealots, stormed the city, hunted down Ananus and Jesus, cut their throats, stripped their bodies naked, and deliberately cast them out unburied into the streets with every indignity, while the people rejoiced and made merry over the corpses exactly as Revelation 11:9-10 describes.

Josephus writes:

I should not mistake if I said that the death of Ananus was the beginning of the destruction of the city, and that from this very day may be dated the overthrow of her wall, and the ruin of her affairs, whereon they saw their high priest, and the procurer of their preservation, slain in the midst of their city.

We do not know what happened to the bodies from the time they died after.

BABYLON THE GREAT

- Revelation 17:5: And upon her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.
- Revelation 17:18: And the woman which thou sawest is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth.
- Revelation 18:10: Standing afar off for the fear of her torment, saying, Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city! for in one hour is thy judgment come.

- Revelation 18:16: And saying, Alas, alas, that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls.
- Revelation 18:18: And cried when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, What city is like unto this great city!
- Revelation 18:19: And they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas, that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! for in one hour is she made desolate.

Revelation 17 and 18 portrays "Babylon the Great" as a corrupt city aligned with Rome. Historical sources confirm this characterization: Jerusalem had become spiritually apostate, killing prophets and collaborating with Roman authority. Josephus describes Jerusalem as "the great city" that held influence over the kings of the earth, reflecting Revelation's imagery of a city in bed with imperial power (Revelation 17:5-6 and Matthew 23:35-38).

LOCUSTS

- Revelation 9:2: And he opened the bottomless pit; and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit.
- Revelation 9:3: And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power.
- Revelation 9:5: And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.
- Revelation 9:6: And in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.
- Revelation 9:7: And the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, and their faces were as the faces of men.
- Revelation 9:8: And they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as the teeth of lions.
- Revelation 9:9: And they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle.
- Revelation 9:10: And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months.

The Roman army that besieged Jerusalem in 70 AD aligns closely with the description of the fifth trumpet locusts in Revelation 9. The siege lasted exactly five months (14th of Nisan to the 8th of Elul), matching the specified five month period of torment.

Roman forces deployed numerous scorpio engines; these were light, rapid-fire catapults named for their scorpion-like action. This corresponds to the "tails like unto scorpions" with stings. Legionaries wore iron breastplates, and many auxiliary troops had long hair and golden imperial insignia resembling crowns.

When it comes to the invading armies being portrayed as locusts, it's actually a common image throughout the Bible.

In Joel, the Bible speaks of devastation, and then goes on to explain an invading nation as the cause. Then in the next chapter it portrays the army as a hoard of insects.

- Joel 1:4: That which the palmerworm hath left hath the locust eaten; and that which the locust hath left hath the cankerworm eaten; and that which the cankerworm hath left hath the caterpillar eaten.
- Joel 1:6: For a nation is come up upon my land, strong, and without number, whose teeth are the teeth of a lion, and he hath the cheek teeth of a great lion.
- Joel 2:4-5: The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they run. Like the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, as a strong people set in battle array.
- Joel 2:7-9: They shall run like mighty men; they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall march every one on his ways, and they shall not break their ranks: Neither shall one thrust another; they shall walk every one in his path: and when they fall upon the sword, they shall not be wounded. They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up upon the houses; they shall enter in at the windows like a thief.

In Nahum, the Bible specifically shows soldiers and captains as locusts and grasshoppers.

- Nahum 3:15-17: There shall the fire devour thee; the sword shall cut thee off, it shall eat thee up like the cankerworm: make thyself many as the cankerworm, make thyself many as the locusts. Thou hast multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven: the cankerworm spoileth, and flieth away. Thy crowned are as the locusts, and thy captains as the great grasshoppers, which camp in the hedges in the cold day, but when the sun ariseth they flee away, and their place is not known where they are.

And in Jeremiah, the author warns of the land being filled with men as locusts.

- Jeremiah 51:14: Surely I will fill thee with men, as with locusts; and they shall lift up a shout against thee.

Judges literally speaks of historical events and compares the armies to grasshoppers.

- Judges 6:5: For they came up with their cattle and their tents, and they came as grasshoppers for multitude; for both they and their camels were without number: and they entered into the land to destroy it.
- Judges 7:12: And the Midianites and the Amalekites and all the children of the east lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the sea side for multitude.

The advance to the city generated the thunderous noise of cavalry and siege machinery, while dense smoke from burning suburbs darkened the sun and air. Josephus documents repeated failed suicide attempts among the trapped population, fulfilling the statement that men would seek death but not find it.

Josephus even writes in The Jewish War 6.7.2:

...[as the Romans were burning the city, the people thereof] appeared cheerful, and put on joyful countenances, in expectation, as they said, of death to end their miseries.

CONCLUSION

When read historically, Revelation presents a coherent and highly detailed depiction of first-century Judea under Roman domination. Here is what we can see historically:

- The Beast: Nero Caesar rising to power and persecuting Christians.
- Number of the Beast 666: Hebrew gematria of Nero is 666, and in Latin is 616.
- The False Prophet: Imperial cult and collaborating Jewish high priests enforcing worship.
- Mark of the Beast: Nero's coinage and certificates required for commerce.
- Abomination of Desolation and Image: Caligula's statue order in the Temple.
- Babylon the Great: Apostate Jerusalem allied with Rome.
- 42 months/1,260 days/3.5 years: Jewish-Roman War Nisan 66 to Av 70 AD.
- Destruction of the Temple: Romans burn the Second Temple in 70 AD.

This perspective grounds Revelation in real historical events, demonstrating that the symbolic language of prophecy was rooted in concrete political, social, and religious circumstances experienced by the earliest Christians. It makes more sense if Christ told everyone that they would not die till the things be fulfilled. And then it all happened in front of them.

COMING BACK SOON

Remember Jesus and His disciples? They spoke with a sense of urgency. They said Jesus was coming back soon. They acted like it would be in their lifetime too.

- Jesus speaking:
 - Revelation 3:11: Behold, I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.
 - Revelation 22:7: Behold, I come quickly: blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book.
 - Revelation 22:12: And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be.
 - Revelation 22:20: He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus.
- Statements by the Apostles
 - 1 Corinthians 7:29: But this I say, brethren, the time is short: it remaineth, that both they that have wives be as though they had none.
 - Romans 13:11: And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep: for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed.
 - Philippians 4:5: Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand.
 - James 5:8-9: Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: behold, the judge standeth before the door.
 - 1 Peter 4:7: But the end of all things is at hand: be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer.
 - Hebrews 10:37: For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry.
 - Revelation 1:1: The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John.
 - Revelation 22:6: And he said unto me, These sayings are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the holy prophets sent his angel to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be done.

You could absolutely just add it up to telling us to be ready at all times. But it's kinda sad if these man were all hyped for the rest of their lives until they died waiting for Christ to come back. And why would Jesus play into that? Why would He even say "Surely I come quickly." That's a bit deceptive if He's then going to wait 2,000 years.

And I know someone wants to argue that "...one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day." (2 Peter 3:8), but God doesn't confuse us. He is not the author of confusion (1 Corinthians 14:33). When He talks to us, He isn't going to mix how He communicates with us. He knows we experience time as slow as we do. Plus, Jesus is also a man. He feels time like us as well. So to say 1,000 years would be like a day for Jesus wouldn't be true.

Either way, paring this with the fact that He said a bunch of people wouldn't die before He came back, it appears as if I have a pretty strong case for Christ return being a lot sooner than 2,000 years.

FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS

If there was such a Tribulation in the first century, what signs were seen? Is there any proof of anything supernatural? Yes, yes there is. But most do not believe.

ARMIES IN THE SKY AND VOICES IN THE TEMPLE

This is the account of Flavius Josephus, written from about 75 to 79 AD. In The Jewish War 6.5.3 Josephus writes:

Besides these, a few sdays after that feast, on the one and twentieth day of the month Artemisius, [Jyar,] a certain prodigious and incredible phenomenon appeared: I suppose the account of it would seem to be a fable; were it not related by those that saw it; and were not the events that followed it of so considerable a nature as to deserve such signals. For, before sun setting, chariots and troops of soldiers in their armour were seen running about among the clouds, and surrounding of cities. Moreover, at that feast which we call Pentecost; as the priests were going by night into the inner [court of the] temple, as their custom was, to perform their sacred ministrations, [in the Temple] they said, that in the first place they felt a quaking, and heard a great noise: and after that they heard a sound, as of a multitude, saying, "Let us remove hence." But what is still more terrible; there was one Jesus, the son of Ananus, a plebeian, and an husbandman, who, four years before the war began; and at a time when the city was in very great peace and prosperity; came to that feast whereon it is our custom for every one to make tabernacles to God in the temple, began on a sudden to cry aloud, "A voice from the east; a voice from the west; a voice from the four winds; a voice against Jerusalem, and the holy house; a voice against the bridegrooms, and the brides; and a voice against this whole people." This was his cry, as he went about by day and by night, in all the lanes of the city. However certain of the most eminent among the populace had great indignation at this dire cry of his; and took up the man, and gave him a great number of severe stripes. Yet did not he either say any thing for himself, or any thing peculiar to those that chastised him: but still went on with the same words which he cried before. Hereupon our rulers, supposing, as the case proved to be, that this was a sort of divine fury in the man; brought him to the Roman procurator.

Josephus is considered one of the strongest and most essential ancient historians, but with clear political and personal biases that must be accounted for. Among ancient writers, he is viewed as far more reliable than average, but never neutral. Here are a few things that Josephus wrote about that we can verify:

- The Temple completely destroyed: Josephus confirms no stone was left standing.
- False prophets during the war: Josephus describes prophets deceiving the people.
- Famines, wars, uprisings: His descriptions align with Jesus' "beginning of sorrows."
- Abominations and sacrilege: Josephus reports Idumeans and zealots defiling the Temple.
- The death of James, brother of Jesus: Josephus independently records this event (Antiquities 20.9.1). Matches the early church record in Acts.
- Descriptions of Herod, Pilate, and Roman rule: Agrees with the Gospels and Acts in names, roles, and political structure.

Overall, most of Josephus's political, military, and cultural details are verifiable. His accounts strongly overlap with biblical history and prophecy. And his supernatural reports match biblical themes and can in some cases, be verified by other author.

Eusebius (310 to 325 AD, Ecclesiastical History: Book 3) supports Josephus' tale of "...chariots and troops of soldiers in their armour were seen running about among the clouds..." And he speaks of Josephus as a trustworthy historian. Eusebius repeats what Josephus wrote and affirms it as history:

And not many days after the feast, on the twenty-first of the month Artemisium, a certain marvelous vision was seen which passes belief. The prodigy might seem fabulous were it not related by those who saw it, and were not the calamities which followed deserving of such signs. For before the setting of the sun chariots and armed troops were seen throughout the whole region in mid-air, wheeling through the clouds and encircling the cities.

Then we have Tacitus (Histories 5.13) independently writing in roughly 105 to 109 AD:

Prodigies had indeed occurred, but to avert them either by victims or by vows is held unlawful by a people which, though prone to superstition, is opposed to all propitiatory rites. Contending hosts were seen meeting in the skies, arms flashed, and suddenly the temple was illumined with fire from the clouds. Of a sudden the doors of the shrine opened and a superhuman voice cried: "The gods are departing": at the same moment the mighty stir of their going was heard. Few interpreted these omens as fearful; the majority firmly believed that their ancient priestly writings contained the prophecy that this was the very time when the East should grow strong and that men starting from Judea should possess the world. This mysterious prophecy had in reality pointed to Vespasian and Titus, but the common people, as is the way of human ambition, interpreted these great destinies in their own favour, and could not be turned to the truth even by adversity. We have heard that the total number of the besieged of every age and both sexes was six hundred thousand; there were arms for all who could use them, and the number ready to fight was larger than could have been anticipated from the total population. Both men and women showed the same determination; and if they were to be forced to change their home, they feared life more than death.

We have many methods of verifying Josephus:

- Tacitus (independent Roman confirmation)
- Eusebius (early Christian preservation)
- Pseudo-Hegesippus (Latin historical tradition)
- Talmudic signs (Jewish omen tradition)
- And Josephus's general reliability was cross-checked in his day

Overall, even though (as he warns they would) the claims sound absurd, but when investigated. There is no evidence that Josephus or anyone else was lying about such an event. It can be independently verified, and has been passed along as truth by those that lived in the same time period.

BIBLICAL PROPHECY ON THE MATTER

Here are some places that the Bible gives us signs and wonders in Heaven as a sign:

- Old Testament:
 - Isaiah 34:4: And all the host of heaven shall be dissolved, and the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll: and all their host shall fall down, as the leaf falleth off from the vine, and as a falling fig from the fig tree.
- New Testament:
 - Matthew 24:29-30: Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken: And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.
 - Revelation 6:12-14: And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places.

- Specifically mentions a battle in Heaven:
 - Revelation 12:7-9: And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

Most of these only mention heavenly wonders to be seen. One verse in Revelation does mention an actual battle. And according to Josephus, Jesus said this:

A voice from the east; a voice from the west; a voice from the four winds; a voice against Jerusalem, and the holy house; a voice against the bridegrooms, and the brides; and a voice against this whole people.

The Jewish War 6.5.3

The reason this might be important, is that all the accounts we have of this battle in the sky (which might match Revelation 12:7-9), we have accounts of a loud voice going throughout the Temple and Jerusalem. And if Josephus is right, that may be something that Jesus also warned of.

In the end, it is very likely that the historical claim of a battle in the skies taking place is true. And it is possible that Jesus warned of this too.

OTHER SIGNS IN THE TEMPLE

In The Jewish War 6.5.3 Josephus writes:

While they did not attend, nor give credit to the signs that were so evident, and did so plainly foretel their future desolation. But like men infatuated, without either eyes to see, or minds to consider, did not regard the denunciations that God made to them. Thus there was a star, resembling a sword, which stood over the city: and a comet, that continued a whole year. Thus also before the Jews rebellion, and before those commotions which preceded the war, when the people were come in great crouds to the feast of unleavened bread, on the eighth day of the month Xanthicus, [Nisan,] and at the ninth hour of the night, so great a light shone round the altar, and the holy house, that it appeared to be bright day time. Which light lasted for half an hour. This light seemed to be a good sign to the unskilful: but was so interpreted by the sacred scribes, as to portend those events that followed immediately upon it. At the same festival also an heifer, as she was led by the High-priest to be sacrificed, brought forth a lamb, in the midst of the temple. Moreover the eastern gate of the inner [court of the] temple, which was of brass, and vastly heavy, and had been with difficulty shut by twenty men, and rested upon a basis armed with iron, and had bolts fastened very deep into the firm floor; which was there made of one intire stone: was seen to be opened of its own accord, about the sixth hour of the night. Now those that kept watch in the temple came hereupon running to the captain of the temple, and told him of it: who then came up thither: and, not without great difficulty, was able to shut the gate again. This also appeared to the vulgar to be a very happy prodigy: as if God did thereby open them the gate of happiness. But the men of learning understood it, that the security of their holy house was dissolved of its own accord: and that the gate was opened for the advantage of their enemies.

In Revelation, right before the locusts are released onto earth. The Bible says:

And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit.

Revelation 9:1

If the Locusts of Revelation are the Roman armies (see LOCUSTS on page 15), then the star mentioned here in chapter 9 would make a lot of sense being the star recorded by Josephus. Because the star was seen before the city and Temple were destroyed, and some wise men saw it as a bad sign.

CLARIFIED PASSAGES

These are going to be passages and ideas that aren't necessarily proofs or direct evidences on their own, but that lend or make more sense from the perspective of the Tribulation being past not future.

RESTRAINING FORCE

I have heard the argument that we can't be living after the Tribulation, because that would mean the Holy Spirit would be gone. This stems from the belief that the Holy Spirit is the "restraining force" mentioned in 2 Thessalonians 2:6-7 (The phrase "restraining force" is not in the Bible, instead it uses the word "withholdeth"):

And now ye know what withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time.

For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

2 Thessalonians 2:6-7

Paul says the Thessalonians already knew "what" was restraining and "who" was restraining. So now we just need to figure out what this "restraining force" is. Here are the most common contestants for the position of restrainer:

- Holy Spirit
- Michael the Archangel
- Human Government (possibly Rome)
- The Gospel's Worldwide Preaching

This issue with the Holy Spirit, is that we are told that the Holy Spirit will never leave us:

And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

John 14:16

In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise, Which is the earnest of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the praise of his glory.

Ephesians 1:13-14

And grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption.

Ephesians 4:30

Some counter argue that the Holy Spirit doesn't leave us, because as we are being taken in the Rapture, the Holy Spirit goes with us. But that is a very deep argument, and many believe otherwise. While some could make an argument that the restrainer is the Holy Spirit, a much more likely possibility is Michael:

And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels,

And prevailed not [against Michael and his angels]; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

Revelation 12:7-9

And we also know that when Michael stands up trouble is released on earth. This could very well be the period of the Tribulation:

And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book.

Daniel 12:1

The only reason that Christians believe this is impossible, is because this passage in Daniel 12:1 is commonly believed to be speaking of the fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of the Temple. Since Michael moves then, it can't be the restrainer 2,000 years later. Unless the Tribulation happened with the fall of Jerusalem, then it all lines up.

BINDING THE STRONG MAN

We have all heard the parable of binding the strong man, but does anyone know what it means? Well, first let's read the passage:

Then was brought unto him one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the son of David? But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand: And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges. But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house.

If I were to try and summarize what Jesus said here, it would be something like this: Jesus casts out a devil, and the Pharisees accuse him of casting out devils through the prince of devils. Jesus explains that if Satan cast out Satan, his house cannot stand, and implies to them that the kingdom of God is come to them. He finishes by explaining that a man cannot spoil the goods in a strong man's house except he first tie up the strong man.

If the reign of Christ is future, he cannot be referring to the binding of Satan in His time. But it really sounds like He is. And this makes a lot of sense if Christ's reign was beginning.

Think of it this way when you read the parable:

- The strong man is Satan
- His house is the domain and control over the world
- His goods are those held under bondage

Other interpretations say that this is Satan losing his power over the individual devils that are cast out, or that he lost his "rightful claim" over humanity. Still others claim that Satan at the time of Jesus became subject to Christ's reign, but not actually bound.

If the Tribulation and Christ's reign have passed, then this makes the most sense; Satan was bound at the time of Jesus and when He describes himself spoiling the house of Satan.

SATAN FALLING

In Revelation 12:5, the Bible says this:

And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads. And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born. And she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne. And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there a thousand two hundred and threescore days. And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

Revelation 12:3-9

The man child who was brought up into heaven and to his throne, is likely symbolic of Jesus Christ. And then after that Satan is cast down to earth. Satan being cast down to earth happens in the Tribulation. So if this happened around the time of Christ, or if Christ actually saw it, then it means the Tribulation must have happened really soon after that.

So now, did Jesus see it? I think He did:

And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name. And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven. Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you. Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven.

Luke 10:17-20

Here Jesus Christ is saying that He sees Satan being cast down from heaven (to earth) as lighting. And Christ isn't prophesying, because He follows up with the fact that His disciples now have power over the enemy.

There is evidence that Jesus Christ Himself claimed to have seen a sign that the Bible indicates must happen shortly before the Tribulation. Because right after that, the Bible says after Satan is cast down:

Woe to the inhabitants of the earth and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.

Revelation 12:12

Then Revelation launches right into the Tribulation, there is no 2000 year gap between Satan being cast down and his great wrath on God's people, and there is not two castings down of Satan. We have one casting down of Satan, and then Satan is greatly wrathful. And this moves straight into the Tribulation. After that, Satan is bound for a thousand years till he is released again to gather the nations.

ELIJAH ALREADY CAME

The Bible clearly teaches that Elijah must come back before the Tribulation begins. And people very commonly believe that this might mean that Elijah is one of the two witnesses of the Tribulation. In Malachi, the Bible says:

Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD: And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

Malachi 4:5-6

This is also backed up by the fact that the Bible says every man must die once and then judgment. And because Enoch and Elijah didn't die, it is theorized that their the ones who come back as the two witnesses. Jesus Himself says that Elijah (Elias) must come back first.

And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the scribes that Elias must first come? And Jesus answered and said unto them, Elias truly shall first come, and restore all things.

Matthew 17:10-11

And they asked him, saying, Why say the scribes that Elias must first come? And he answered and told them, Elias verily cometh first, and restoreth all things; and how it is written of the Son of man, that he must suffer many things, and be set at nought.

Mark 9:11-12

So obviously, Elijah's coming is a huge sign of the Tribulation. And now I tell you, and Jesus did too, Elijah has come:

But I say unto you, That Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but have done unto him whatsoever they listed. Likewise shall also the Son of man suffer of them. Then the disciples understood that he spake unto them of John the Baptist.

Matthew 17:12-13

And again:

For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John. And if ye will receive it, this [John] is Elias, which was for to come.

Matthew 11:13-14

SEALING PROPHECY

In Daniel the God tells Daniel twice to "seal the book" of apocalyptic prophecy. This basically means just seal it up for a future time. The world doesn't need this prophecy yet:

But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

Daniel 12:4

And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end.

Daniel 12:9

Isaiah does something similar:

And the vision of all is become unto you as the words of a book that is sealed, which men deliver to one that is learned, saying, Read this, I pray thee: and he saith, I cannot; for it is sealed:

Isaiah 29:11

The books being sealed means that their written but no man will be able to read and understand them until the time that God unseals them. It basically means that it is set for a future time and a future generation.

If Revelation mentions sealing or something similar, we would expect it to follow this pattern. But we see the opposite:

And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand.

Revelation 22:10

Unlike Daniel, at the end of the book of Revelation, John is told to specifically not to seal up the book. The reason given is that the time is at hand. Pretty misleading if it meant at hand 2,000 years later.

FOUR RESURRECTIONS?

According to the modern church, there are four resurrections in the Bible. You only knew of two or three maybe, and the Bible says there is a first and second, but the modern church has four.

There was a resurrection the moment Christ died, there will (according to the modern church) be a resurrection at the Rapture, there is a resurrection at Christ's second coming, and there is a final resurrection of all the dead at the end of time. That's four.

The weird thing is that the Bible calls the resurrection at Christ's second coming the first resurrection (even though, according to the church, two already happened before this).

- Christ's Death
 - Matthew 27:52-53: And the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints which slept arose, And came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many.
- The supposed Rapture:
 - 1 Thessalonians 4:16: For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first:
 - 1 Corinthians 15:52: In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.
- Christ's second coming:
 - Revelation 20:4-5: And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years. But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection.
- The end of time:
 - Revelation 20:5: But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection.
 - Revelation 20:12-13: And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened: and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works. And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works.

What this shows is four resurrections. But then why does the Bible only call Christ's second coming resurrection the first? Well, let's try and figure out what's going on.

First, the Rapture verses are not for the Rapture. They convey the same thing that the verses about Christ's second coming do. They are the same event, the Rapture isn't biblical. That might suck, but it's true (please see The Rapture by Lanthano:

<https://lanthanoresearch.com/pdf.html?file=The%20Rapture.pdf&paper=The%20Rapture&return=https%3A%2F%2Flanthanoresearch.com%2Fcategory.html%3Fcategory%3Dall>)

And if Christ already came back, and came back right after His death, that resurrection might even be the first resurrection that Revelation is speaking of. This could mean that the first three resurrections (death, Rapture, and second coming), are all the same thing. This would make much more sense with the Bible calling the third resurrection the first.

FALSE SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Many Christians are waiting for the Tribulation to happen soon. And there are many signs we look for.

- Rebuilding of the Temple
- Resumption of Sacrifices
- Antichrist
- The Beast
- The mark of the Beast
- Euphrates River drying up

The Beast, his mark, and the Antichrist are real signs to watch for. Assuming that they haven't come and gone, that's great to watch for.

However, the rebuilding of the Temple, and the Sacrifices resuming are not in the Bible. We wait for it because the Bible says that the Temple is destroyed in the Tribulation. If the Tribulation is ahead of us, then a third Temple must be built for it to be destroyed again. And the same goes for the Sacrifices. They haven't been going on since shortly after Christ, and assuming that the Tribulation is ahead of us, the Sacrifices need to start up again. But aside from these assumptions. These events are not prophesied.

The Euphrates River drying up is not mean the Tribulation is coming, it just means the Euphrates River is drying up. And even if you're going to say it has to be prophecy, it would mean that we're almost all the way through the Tribulation by now:

And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

Revelation 16:12

At the point the Euphrates dries up during the Tribulation, the sixth vial is being pored out. And this is a sign inside the Tribulation, not a stand alone universal sign of the great Tribulation.

In the end, many of the signs we believe must happen aren't in the Bible and are merely there because of necessity. Because you can't have Sacrifices being stopped without there already being Sacrifices. And there can't be a Temple destroyed without first having a Temple.

THE STATE OF ISRAEL

The state of Israel as we know it today is a counterfeit. Plain and simple. There is no place in the Bible that says it will be regathered after Christ's time. The idea that Israel becoming a nation in 1948 fulfilled prophecy is based on nothing but the fact that it is necessary if the Tribulation is yet to come.

FINDING THE THIRD TEMPLE

If you try to find the Third Temple in the Bible, you won't be able to. Because to find it, the logic goes as such: in Revelation John is told to measure the Temple during the Tribulation. This must be the future temple.

Basically you find anywhere that the Temple is mentioned in the Bible in regards to the end times, and from there you assume the Bible's referencing the Third Temple and not the Second:

- Sacrifices must resume before they can be taken away.
- The man of sin must sit in a Temple that doesn't exist today.
- John measures a Temple during the end-time period.

There is no reference to rebuilding a Temple after the Second Temple is built.

SACRIFICES END

And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate.

Daniel 9:27

While Daniel talks a lot about the Sacrifices being put to an end, and Hebrews speaks about how there is no need for any other sacrifice for sin other than Jesus Christ, there is no place in the whole of scripture that mentions sacrifices starting again.

The only reason that we see the modern counterfeit state of Israel starting sacrifices again as a fulfillment of prophecy is because it must be if the sacrifices are going to be stopped. What no one seems to think about is that if they are supposed to be stopped in the Tribulation, and they have been stopped, why are we waiting for them to start up again if the idea is not in the Bible.

EUPHRATES DRYING

There are many that believe that since we have images of the Euphrates River drying up, that the end must be near. And here's where this prophecy comes from:

And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

Revelation 16:12

The two key elements here are: the river drying up and making way for the kings of the east. The standard interpretation is that the river Euphrates is the Euphrates River, and the kings of the east are invading armies.

Josephus says Crassus passed over the Euphrates before his disastrous battle against the Parthians:

...but when he had passed over Euphrates, he perished himself, and his army with him;

The Wars Of The Jews, Book 1, Chapter 8

We know that after Christ, the Euphrates River became passable to armies, both invading and Roman. And we also know, according to Josephus, that these armies utilized this. And we also know that the Euphrates naturally drops in summer months. This allows it to be forded, and shallow spots become usable for armies.

While we do not have any recorded history of the Euphrates River drying, it could be possible that it did. Or if one reads the prophecy from a different angle, you can focus less on the drying of the river and more on the function that this drying serves.

The word used for "dried up" does not mean what "dried up" means to us. It can mean both the total absence of water, or the lowering of the water. The word is exēranthē (ἐξηράνθη) and it means: to make dry, (bodily) to wither, (by implication) to waste away, (of harvest) fully ripe, mature. Unless context enforces that it is a total drying of the river, it isn't necessarily a safe assumption to believe it to be a total drying of the river.

And the context of the passage in Revelation is very clear that the purpose of the river drying is to allow invading armies across.

THE IMPOSSIBILITY OF A THIRD TEMPLE

The Temple in the Tribulation is God's Temple. Pretty much everyone agrees on this:

So that he [the son of perdition] as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

Thessalonians 2:4

This clearly states that the son of perdition sits in the "temple of God" and then goes on to show himself as God. So very clearly, this temple that exists in the Tribulation is called the temple of God Himself.

Here's the issue with this Temple being a future temple: after Christ came, we (born again believers) became the Temple.

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands;

Acts 17:24

Howbeit the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet, Heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the Lord: or what is the place of my rest? Hath not my hand made all these things?

Acts 7:48-50

Behold, your house [the physical temple] is left unto you desolate.

Matthew 23:38

Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away.

Hebrews 8:13

For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us:

Hebrews 9:24

Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.

1 Corinthians 3:16-17

What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?

1 Corinthians 6:19

And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

2 Corinthians 6:16

In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord: In whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit.

Ephesians 2:21-22

Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

1 Peter 2:5

And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it.

Revelation 21:22

After Christ, God explicitly rejects temples made with hands and repeatedly declares that His dwelling is now Christ and His people. A final state where no temple of stone exists at all.

CHRIST'S REIGN

Many Christians believe that when Christ returns, He will reign for a literal one thousand year period. Some argue that the thousand years is metaphorical. They argue the number 1,000 is used symbolically, representing completeness, fullness, or a very long period of time.

Christianity also believes it to be a physical reign. Let's inspect this.

1,000 YEARS?

Here's how the Bible uses the number 1,000:

For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills.

Psalm 50:10

For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand [days] elsewhere. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness.

Psalm 84:10

For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night.

Psalm 90:4

He hath remembered his covenant for ever, the word which he commanded to a thousand generations.

Psalm 105:8

Know therefore that the LORD thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations;

Deuteronomy 7:9

But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.

2 Peter 3:8

With this framework, is it possible that Christ's millennial reign is not a literal thousand years? Yes, it very much is. But what are the counterarguments?

Some argue that because Revelation uses the number six times when referring to Christ's reign, it is trying to reinforce an actual period of time and not just a very long time. That's a pretty good argument, but it's not necessarily enough to solidify it as literal.

Another argument is that the Greek term chilia, meaning "one thousand," is consistently used throughout Scripture as a literal, exact number, whether referring to populations, generations, or spans of time. In Revelation 20, chilia appears six times (which is the basis of the previous argument) to describe the period Satan is bound, the reign of the saints, and the chronological sequence of events that follow.

The issue with this argument, is that chilia is the exact same word used in the verses above (Psalm 50:10, Psalm 84:10, etc.). But obviously it's not always literal in these places. So this argument doesn't really hold much weight.

Here are the two most solid pieces of evidence for the reign being an actual 1,000 years: Revelation uses the number six times, and it bases other events off of that thousand years.

The argument for the idea that 1,000 might have been meant symbolically is: other places in scripture use 1,000 symbolically and Revelation is incredibly symbolic.

CHRIST NEVER RETREATS

Regardless of where Christ reigns from, if Jesus Christ has already begun reigning, he hasn't left. No where in the Bible does it say He returns to Heaven after His 1,000 year reign. But there are a lot of verses that say His kingdom doesn't end:

He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end.

Luke 1:32-33

I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.

Daniel 7:13-14

And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

Daniel 2:44

But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom.

Hebrews 1:8

And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever.

Revelation 11:15

The Bible never says Christ retreats, Christ only reigns forever. Satan is released inside that His reign. And then at the end, Revelation says that it is Satan who goes up against the throne at the end of time:

Satan is given his short time to finish his acts of rebellion in one final act. Christ doesn't stop reigning, he just faces one last time of opposition.

WHERE ARE WE?

So, if the great Tribulation did already happen, and Christ did come back and reign for 1,000 years on earth, where are we on the timeline? This might be the next thing you want to ask as a way to either break or make my argument.

And the answer isn't super nice at all: we're in Satan's little season.

Here are the steps during the last days:

1. Great Tribulation
2. Armageddon
3. Second Coming of Christ
4. First Resurrection
5. Thousand Years Reign
6. Satan Loosed a Little Season
7. Gog and Magog (Final Battle)
8. Great White Throne Judgment
9. Lake of Fire (Second Death)
10. New Heaven and New Earth

The logic is pretty straightforward: we know that the Tribulation already happened, and that Christ came back right after that. And since the final battle hasn't taken place yet, that puts us right inside of Satan's "Little Season."

What is Satan's "Little Season"? Well, here's all we have on it:

And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that [thousand years] he must be loosed a little season.

Revelation 20:3

And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them. And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever.

Revelation 20:7-10

According to this theory. We would be waiting, not for the Tribulation or Rapture, but the final battle where God casts fire down from Heaven to destroy everything.

This isn't Armageddon, that already happened right after the Tribulation before Christ's Millennial Reign. Then after the Christ's reign, the Devil is released to gather the nations of earth for the Final Battle.

HOW LONG IS THE LITTLE SEASON

When the Bible says "little season," in the Greek it is mikron chronon.

- Mikron: small, little, short, slight, insignificant (in size, number, or duration)
- Chronon: time, a space of time, a measured or sequential duration, time as quantity (countable, measurable)

So there is nothing in this that says it is a week long, a year long, seven years, 100 years, or 400 years. All we could speculate is that it could be less than Christ's reign in length.

Many argue that it has to be a few years, or something similar in length. But this is speculation.

Some say it might be 250 years long. They get this by observing that a season is a quarter of the year and then taking a quarter of Christ's reign. While this idea sounds kinda good, it would be more accurate to say it's 500 years. This is because the Bible only teaches two seasons; summer and winter. So it wouldn't be a quarter, it would be a half. Yet another branch assumes that Satan's season is just as long as Christ's.

While these might sound good, they are speculation and should be treated as such. This is why the timeline at the beginning of this paper states that we could be anywhere between 225 and 986 years into Satan's season.

DEBUNKING COMMON ARGUMENTS

This section focuses on the most common and strongest arguments against the idea that we are living inside Satan's little season.

These are the strongest arguments against the idea of living inside Satan's little season. The idea is that if this idea can withstand the strongest arguments against it, it has a pretty good chance at being true.

And I believe that I have a pretty good idea of the arguments out there against Satan's little season. When it comes to researching Satan's little season, this is the very minimum I have done:

- 41 hours of the Question the Narrative podcast by Ricardo and Shane
- 15 hours of other podcasts and videos
- 180 hours of researching online, related books, and the Bible
- 90+ hours of AI researching

After doing a deep dive into Satan's little season, I felt it appropriate to give the other side just as fair a chance. Keep in mind, I was also raised this way and thus had huge potential bias against Satan's little season.

- 200 hours of online researching online, books, and the Bible
- 110 hours of podcasts, interviews, and videos
- 200+ hours of AI researching

So, when I say that this is my exhaustive list of arguments against Satan's little season, I really mean it. I have search the internet far and wide and this is the collection I have.

On top of this, I have 169 hours clocked in just creating this paper.

SATAN MORE POWERFUL THAN GOD

This argument says that if Satan has fooled everyone today that Christ has not come, then you are making Satan more powerful than God. Some take this farther by saying that this makes anyone who believes this apostate.

The issue with this argument is that, it isn't how the Spiritual world works. If Satan has fooled everyone today, then it's only because God allowed it. Just like we saw in Job, Satan only has as much power as God gives him.

So if this entire world has been fooled into thinking that Christ hasn't come yet, it isn't making Satan more powerful than the Almighty God. It would just mean that God allowed Satan to deceive the world, as we are told is Satan's job in "Satan's little season." After all, we are told that this is Satan's actual goal in the little time he is allowed.

And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea.

Revelation 20:7-8

How would he gather the nations without actually tricking the whole world?

WE DON'T LIVE OVER 100

This argument says that the Bible plainly states that people will be living hundreds of years in Christ's reign. Here's the passage:

There shall be no more thence an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled his days: for the child shall die an hundred years old; but the sinner being an hundred years old shall be accursed.

Isaiah 65:20

If this is true, and it appears that it is, then this isn't an argument for us not being in Satan's little season. If something is happening inside the Millennial reign, then it doesn't necessarily carryover to Satan's short time.

PEACEFUL ANIMALS

Along with this, animals are at peace with man in Christ's reign. But this is only mentioned for His reign specifically. It would be an assumption to assume that this carries over into Satan's season.

WHERE IS THE NEW JERUSALEM

This argument claims that since there isn't a New Jerusalem at this point in time, that it means that Christ hasn't reigned yet.

But if we look at the Bible, we see that the coming of New Jerusalem is directly tied to the New Heaven and Earth:

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea. And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

Revelation 21:1-2

If this isn't bad enough, this all is happening right after the final Great Judgment. There is no historical event after this. The Bible concludes that after this, God's chosen enter into the eternal state.

WHY IS THERE STILL SEA?

People also argue that since there is still oceans, then Christ couldn't have reigned yet.

But this is inaccurately tied to Christ's reign. It actually is another event at the very end of time. Reading Revelation 21:1, you see that the drying of the seas is directly tied to the New Heaven and Earth, exactly as the New Jerusalem is.

THERE'S NO HOPE

Many people argue that the idea of Satan's little season is an idea that leads to despair and only despair. They agree that there's no return of Christ, no Rapture, no destruction of the wicked and judgment of the world.

You can see this idea in this video that focuses on debunking Satan's season (at 8:29):

<https://youtu.be/dluLdRr4nr8?t=509>

Here is the part from that video where Ed Mabrie talks about how hopeless the entire thing is:

...this [Satan's little season theory] is a bleak and hopeless theory. If we are in this so-called little season, there's nothing, there's no hope. There's nothing to look forward to. You're not looking forward to Christ coming back. He came back already. You're not looking forward to any type of rapture or escape. That's already happened in the past. You're not looking forward to God, Jehovah, Yahweh, coming back to judge the... the evil that's happened on this world for millennia, cause that's already happened as well. If you believe that we're in the little season, then the only thing you're looking forward to is fire coming down from heaven to devour everyone. Bleak. Hopeless. And if you believe that God has given this period of time over to Satan, and there's nothing we can do about it, then again, what... what... what hope do you have?

This however, is not the case. We have the hope of God's final perfect judgment on the world. And then a perfect world where Christ reigns. Not only does this include the benefits and wonderful things that happen inside Christ's reign, but it also includes an absolutely perfect world.

This also doesn't debunk the idea regardless of if it were true or not. What is true is true, whether or not it is depressing or not. This theory just also doesn't happen to be depressing.

MAKING IT A LONG SEASON

This argument starts off by pointing to Revelation 6:11:

And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.

Revelation 6:11

This is the only other places in the Bible that uses the term "little season" outside the context of Satan's little season. And it basically says that the saints must wait a "little season" until the Tribulation ends. So since that must be less than 3.5 years, they argue that Satan's little season must likewise be similar in length.

When the Bible says "little season" in regards to Satan's season, in the Greek it is mikron chronon. The word is ambiguous.

- Mikron: small, little, short, slight, insignificant (in size, number, or duration)
- Chronon: time, a space of time, a measured or sequential duration, time as quantity (countable, measurable)

Just because one place has a defined length of time, does not mean all other uses of the ambiguous word must be the same. "Little season" is not a definitive amount of time. It could be 3.5 years in one place, 40 in another, and 400 in the last. It is not a universal amount of time when used, and does not carry any set amount of time.

The best this argument can argue, is that Satan's season must be short. But it cannot be tied to a numerical value.

CHRIST ISN'T IN JERUSALEM

This argument is pretty simple and solid enough, and it goes like this: if Jesus Christ reign of 1,000 years has already happened then where is He? Jesus never ends His reign on earth. Satan is only given a short time on earth to conclude his final act of rebellion. So if Christ reign has already begun, why don't we see him in Jerusalem?

This is a very solid argument... if Jerusalem is where Christ reigns from. And what would you know, that's not what the Bible says.

There is a lot of speculation on where Christ is while He reigns over earth. Some say it is in Jerusalem, some say it is in Heaven, some put His presence at the North Pole (go to THE NORTH POLE AND CHRIST on page 53 for details).

So while this argument seems very strong off the bat, it really is speculation, and it doesn't prove anything either way.

When looking at the biblical evidence, those who believe the Jesus reigns in heaven have a pretty solid case. With the Bible explicitly saying that this is where Christ is right after His resurrection:

Therefore being by the right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this, which ye now see and hear.

Acts 2:33

Which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from the dead, and set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places, Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come: And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church.

Ephesians 1:20-22

If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

Colossians 3:1-2

If Christ began His reign over earth as soon as He arose from the dead, then it makes sense that His is so exalted in these passages.

If Christ reigns in heaven (perhaps inside the New Jerusalem), then it also makes sense that when the New Jerusalem descends from heaven, and the Bible describes that as exactly where the thrones of God and Jesus Christ are.

And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.

Revelation 21:2-3

And there shall be no more curse: but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him: And they shall see his face; and his name shall be in their foreheads. And there shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for the Lord God giveth them light: and they shall reign forever and ever.

Revelation 22:3-5

It makes more sense that this is where Jesus reigns over earth, and then that it descends out of heaven and that's where He continues to reign from. Just now physically on earth.

NO ONE BELIEVED THIS BEFORE

This argument claims that this idea of being inside Satan's little season is a very new idea. Basically because this idea came about in the past 100 years it must mean that it isn't true.

But there are two things here that must needs be proven. First, is this idea actually a new one? And second, if it is new, does it mean it isn't true?

Addressing the first question, if this is a relatively new idea, we would kinda expect it to be a new idea. If Satan little season is as it says "little," we obviously would expect it to be a new idea. And anyone who lived before this season, would also obviously not think they lived inside it.

Even if it is a new theory, there are those that thought the Tribulation was past as far back as the 1600s^{L1}. But when the theory develops has nothing to do with how true it is.

WHERE'S THE ONE LANGUAGE?

This is one of the most powerful sounding arguments I have run across, it goes like this: the Bible says that during Christ's reign, the world will speak one language again. So why don't we speak one language now?

This is a legit argument. some people counter it by saying that we just went back to the per-reign state when Satan was released. But I don't think that makes sense. How would a whole world just move back into multiple languages again? It doesn't make sense to me, I don't see it bionically, and I know many people don't either.

Here is the only verse that supports the one world tongue idea:

For then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the LORD, to serve him with one consent.

Zephaniah 3:9

There is a lot of speculation on what a "pure language" is. Does it mean a single language? Pure speech? A good heart for worshipping God? The Bible definitely has a way of describing a single language, and it doesn't use it here. These are the possible interpretations for this passage:

- A restored single world language; undoing Babel
- Purified speech in general; clean, holy, God-honoring words
- True worship language; people calling on the LORD rightly
- Removal of idolatrous religious terms; no more false god-names
- A unified confession or faith; one consent, one message or loyalty
- Truthful speech replacing deception; no lies, no double-talk
- Cleansed lips and moral purification of the mouth; unclean lips made clean
- A spiritual language; the way people speak to God, not grammar
- A reversal of confusion and division; not necessarily one language, but no misunderstanding or hostility

While I am not sure which one is true, the first one I would actually rule out is the single language. It just doesn't fit. It does not fit what this verse is actually trying to communicate.

So why do we not all speak one language now if we are in Satan's season? Well, because the Bible might not even teach that.

REVELATION WAS WRITTEN IN 95 AD

This argument claims that Revelation was written after 90 AD, and since the Temple fell around 70 AD, it can't be talking about the Tribulation for their times, because it would have already passed by then. Multiple people online use this as the "nail in the coffin" for Satan's little season.

What they fail to acknowledge is that there are two dates commonly given for the writing of Revelation. The first and most common is in fact 95 AD to 96 AD, well after when the Temple supposedly fell. But the alternative date puts the writing of Revelation at 65 AD to 70 AD.

Irenaeus (an early Christian writer) is usually read as saying Revelation was seen near the end of Domitian's reign (Domitian ruled roughly 81 AD to 96 AD). That's the strongest reason most people date it around 95 AD to 96 AD.

Some people argue for Nero's time (Nero ruled from about 54 AD to 68 AD). One strong reason (outside the actual prophecies in Revelation) is that some Syriac copies of Revelation have a heading that says John was sent to Patmos by Nero. Also, there's an old quote saying John came back after "the tyrant" died. Some argue that this tyrant could be Nero, but others say it could mean Domitian. But Nero is absolutely remembered as "the tyrant."

So, yes if it was written in 95 AD this argument might have ground, but there is easy room to debate that it was written before 70 AD. Not only from the actual text from the Bible, but from external sources as well.

THIS IS HERETICAL

A lot of online arguments against this idea of Satan's season hinge on the idea that it is biblically heretical. Here is the key verse that is referenced:

And their word will eat as doth a canker: of whom is Hymenaeus and Philetus; Who concerning the truth have erred, saying that the resurrection is past already; and overthrow the faith of some.

Timothy 2:17-18

This passage is speaking about certain heretical ideas that were circulating at the time. And the Bible is clearly explaining that there is a heretical teaching that the resurrection had already passed. The verse goes on to point out Hymenaeus and Philetus as partakers in this lie and then warns that this lie has already overthrown the faith of some.

Now, some argue that those who believe in Satan's little season (which requires that they believe the first resurrection passed), that they are now heretical with Hymenaeus and Philetus. Because, just as they shortly after Christ, they are saying that the resurrection has passed.

This is simply not applicable though. Here's why: it is only heretical to say that the resurrection is passed, until it actually happens.

Once the resurrection happens, it isn't heretical to say it has. It's spreading truth. If we do indeed live in Satan's season, then it isn't heretical, it's just the truth. If it were dangerous and heretical to say this, then it creates issues with the character of God. If something is true, would God ever call it heretical? If so, is God trying to hide something?

This argument can be dismissed simply with this line of reasoning: the resurrection hadn't happened at the time Timothy was written. Thus teaching that it had occurred was heresy. Once the resurrection does happen, it is no longer heresy, it's just the truth.

IT ISN'T THE WHOLE WORLD

This argument states that Revelation is clear that the Tribulation effects the whole world. But, reading from Daniel, you see that the Tribulation is meant for Israel, and not something the rest of the world brought on themselves.

The verses used to show the whole world as involved, include the following:

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

Revelation 12:9

And I saw one of his heads as it were wounded to death; and his deadly wound was healed: and all the world wondered after the beast.

Revelation 13:3

Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

Revelation 3:10

For they are the spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.

Revelation 16:14

While we read only the word "world," the original Greek is using two words here. For Revelation 12:9 and 13:3, it is using the word kosmos (κόσμος). In Revelation 3:10 and 16:14, it is using oikoumenē (οἰκουμένη).

From Strong's Concordance:

- Kosmos: order, regular arrangement; the world; the inhabitants of the world; the present condition of human affairs.
- Oikoumenē: the inhabited earth; the world as inhabited by mankind.

Kosmos is more conceptual or societal, sometimes overlapping with location, but usually emphasizing system or sphere of human influence. Oikoumenē is more geographical, pointing actual inhabited lands, but usually limited to local areas or lands.

In summary, these two words basically can mean a wide range of the following depending on context:

- The entire earth
- The known inhabited world
- The Roman Empire
- The system of human society
- A specific region experiencing an event

In Luke the Bible says:

There went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

Luke 2:1

The Bible is not trying to convey that the whole world is getting taxed. It makes a great deal more sense if it is only talking about the Roman Empire. There isn't anything that is saying this is the entire world. The word here for "all the world" is oikoumenē.

If in Revelation, oikoumenē means the actual whole world. Then it means the same thing in Luke.

Here are some passages that use Kosmos.

Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out.

John 12:31

These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.

John 16:33

Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

1 John 2:15-16

In these places, the Bible is trying to convey the idea of humanity. Look back at what Kosmos means. It isn't talking about the whole of earth physically. It is humanity.

But does Greek have a way of referring to the whole earth? Yes.

Gē (γῆ), is the word for earth. This is the most common word in the New Testament for the physical earth. It literally means land, soil, or planet. Pasa gē (πᾶσα γῆ) means the entire earth. The whole of the physical earth. This encompasses the whole thing.

But we don't see Pasa gē anywhere. Probably because it isn't ever trying to refer to the whole physical earth. It refers to the totality of mankind, local events, empires, specific locations, etc. Very few places you see the Bible use the word "world" does it actually use it the same way we do today.

STARS FALLING FROM HEAVEN

Revelation makes it clear that the sun will not give it's light, the moon will turn to blood, and the stars of heaven will fall to earth. That's some insane imagery to watch out for. And another reason someone might be able to say without a doubt that the Tribulation hasn't passed.

Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken:

Matthew 24:29

But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, And the stars of heaven shall fall, and the powers that are in heaven shall be shaken.

Mark 13:24-25

However, contrary to common belief, I suggest that when the Bible says the sun will be darkened, or the stars will fall from heaven, that it is speaking of powers being shaken. I believe that by using the Bible to interpret the Bible, you can find this to be true.

Behold, the day of the LORD cometh, cruel both with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land desolate: and he shall destroy the sinners thereof out of it. For the stars of heaven and the constellations thereof shall not give their light: the sun shall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine.

Isaiah 13:9-10

The earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble: the sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining:

Joel 2:10

And when I shall put thee out, I will cover the heaven, and make the stars thereof dark; I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light. All the bright lights of heaven will I make dark over thee, and set darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord GOD.

Ezekiel 32:7-8

If we take all these passages literally, then the stars of heaven would have stopped giving their light and the sun would have as well long before Christ and definitely by now.

Isaiah 13 opens with:

The burden of Babylon, which Isaiah the son of Amoz did see.

Isaiah 13:1

It begins by making it clear, this is for Babylon, not the future. This was the then and there.

Joel's imagery is often interpretative just as such: imagery. Some connect it to Revelation because they both use similar language and imagery. But doing so is an assumption.

And Ezekiel 32 is speaking about the judgments on the Pharaoh of Egypt.

They all use this cosmic imagery to describe devastation and upheaval. But it is also obvious in at least one of these instances, that it is not literal. And is not meant to be taken completely literally.

You can also see this when just examining the verses related to Revelation.

Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken:

Matthew 24:29

But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, And the stars of heaven shall fall, and the powers that are in heaven shall be shaken.

Mark 13:24-25

After these verses finish saying the sun will be darkened, the moon will turn to blood, and the stars will fall from heaven, it says that the powers of heaven will be shaken. Taking the Old Testament into consideration, it would be a gross assumption to assume that the literal stars are going to fall from heaven.

DUAL PROPHECY

The idea of dual biblical prophecy is a myth. Many people dismiss the idea of the Tribulation being already passed, by saying that there is dual prophecy fulfillment. They basically say that sure, some or even many things might have been fulfilled back then, but dual prophecy allows the tribulation to still be future and allow partial fulfillment at the time of Christ.

Here is a breakdown of the supporting evidence for dual biblical prophecy fulfillment.

According to the idea, Isaiah 7:14 is the first prophecy that was fulfilled twice:

Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.

Isaiah 7:14

The argument is that since Isaiah is speaking to King Ahaz, that this prophecy had to have happened in the life events of King Ahaz. And then it was fulfilled again at the birth of Jesus Christ.

This has two major issues. First, there is no record of a virgin conceiving a child in the time of King Ahaz. And secondly, there is no recorded child or man that was called Immanuel.

Moreover the LORD spake again unto Ahaz, saying, Ask thee a sign of the LORD thy God; ask it either in the depth, or in the height above. But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the LORD. And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David; Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also? Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.

Isaiah 7:10-14

Ahaz turns down the chance to ask the Lord for a sign. And then the Bible says

Hear ye now, O house of David. . .

This shows that it is now no longer speaking to Ahaz, but the entirety of the house of David. This is made even more clear when the Bible records:

Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign. . .

When the KJV uses "thee," "thou," or "ye," it is speaking directly to a single person. But if the Bible says "you," then it is speaking to a group.

In Isaiah 7:14, the Lord is speaking to the house of David. Not to Ahaz.

The second time that the Bible allegedly shows us dual prophecy is in Hosea 11:

. . .called my son out of Egypt.

Hosea 11:1

This reference is claimed to be both referencing Israel (which it is), and Jesus Christ. In fact, Matthew says this:

And was there until the death of Herod: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Out of Egypt have I called my son.

Matthew 2:15

This is used to say that the prophecy applied to both Israel and Christ. The issue is that Israel's history patterns or foreshadows Christ, it didn't predict it.

Now let's look at the whole verse in Hosea:

When Israel was a child, then I loved him, and called my son out of Egypt.

Hosea 11:1

This is in fact talking about Israel. It portrays Israel as a child, a child that is then called from Egypt. This is foreshadowing of the Messiah, but it is not prophecy. This passage in Hosea is talking about Israel's past. It wasn't prophesying.

Beyond these two verses in Hosea and Isaiah, the idea of dual prophecy fulfillment comes from predictions and prophecies in:

- Joel 2
- Daniel 11
- Matthew 24
- All of Revelation

In all of these passages, the Bible is speaking of the Tribulation and woes to come. The reasoning is this: the Tribulation is still coming, and since there are visible things that did happen at the time of Christ, there is dual prophecy fulfillment.

This reasoning would be strengthened if the "prophecies" in Hosea and Isaiah were actual dual fulfillment prophecies. But because they aren't, this reasoning is an assumption. Without other supporting dual fulfillment prophecies, the idea that the prophecies regarding the Tribulation and end times are dual fulfillment becomes forced.

OVERVIEW OF PROPHECY

The following lists will focus on the main prophecies, detailed list of events and modern signs.

LIST OF MAIN EVENTS

#	RELEVANT PASSAGE(S)	PROPHESED SIGN	FULFILLED ON TIME	DETAILS
#1	Daniel 9:24	Daniel's 70 Weeks (490 Years) Countdown	YES	70 WEEKS on page 4
#2	Revelation 13:1-8 2 Daniel 7:23-25	The Beast	YES	THE BEAST on page 9
#3	Revelation 13:16-18	Mark of the Beast	YES	THE MARK OF THE BEAST on page 10
#5	Daniel 7:25 Daniel 12:7 Revelation 11:2 Revelation 11:3 Revelation 12:6 Revelation 12:14 Revelation 13:5	3.5 Years Tribulation	YES	3.5 YEAR TRIBULATION on page 12
#8	Matthew 24:2 Mark 13:2	Destruction of Jerusalem	YES	DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM AND TEMPLE on page 12
#9	Luke 21:20-24	Fall of the Temple	YES	DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM AND TEMPLE on page 12
#12	Daniel 9:27 Daniel 11:31 Daniel 12:11	Sacrifices End	YES	THE FALSE PROPHET on page 13

DETAILED LIST OF EVENTS

#	RELEVANT PASSAGE(S)	PROPHESED SIGN	PROPHECY BIBLICAL VALUE	FULFILLED BY	DETAILS
#1	Daniel 9:24	Daniel's 70 Weeks (490 Years) Countdown	Standard Biblical Sign	Jewish-Roman War & Destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple	70 WEEKS on page 4
#2	Revelation 13:1-8 Daniel 7:23-25	The Beast	Standard Biblical Sign	Nero Caesar or Roman Empire	THE BEAST on page 9
#3	Revelation 13:16-18	Mark of the Beast	Standard Biblical Sign	Nero Caesar's Fire Tax	THE MARK OF THE BEAST on page 10
#4	Matthew 24:21 Luke 21:23	Great Tribulation	Standard Biblical Sign	Jewish-Roman War	GREAT TRIBULATION AND MASSIVE DISTRESS on page 11
#5	Daniel 7:25 Daniel 12:7 Revelation 11:2 Revelation 11:3 Revelation 12:6 Revelation 12:14 Revelation 13:5	3.5 Years Tribulation	Standard Biblical Sign	Jewish-Roman War	3.5 YEAR TRIBULATION on page 12
#6	Daniel 9:27 Matthew 24:15 Matthew 24:2 Mark 13:14	Desecration of the Temple	Standard Biblical Sign	Caligula's Statue	ABOMINATION DESECRATION OF THE TEMPLE on page 11
#7	Revelation 16:12	Euphrates River Drying Up	Not A Stand-Alone Sign: Euphrates River rises and falls every year.	Euphrates Drying During the Jewish-Roman War	EUPHRATES DRYING on page 31
#8	Matthew 24:2 Mark 13:2	Destruction of Jerusalem	Standard Biblical Sign	Romans under Titus or Caligula	DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM AND TEMPLE on page 12

#	RELEVANT PASSAGE(S)	PROPHESED SIGN	PROPHECY BIBLICAL VALUE	FULFILLED BY	DETAILS
#9	Luke 21:20-24	Fall of the Temple	Standard Biblical Sign	Romans under Titus or Caligula	DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM AND TEMPLE on page 12
#10	Revelation 16:13 Revelation 19:20 Revelation 20:10	The False Prophet or "Antichrist"	Standard Biblical Sign	John of Gischala or Jesus ben Gamaliel	THE FALSE PROPHET on page 13
#11	Revelation 11:3	The Two Witnesses	Standard Biblical Sign	Ananus ben Ananus & Jesus ben Gamala	THE TWO WITNESSES on page 14
#12	Daniel 9:27 Daniel 11:31 Daniel 12:11	Sacrifices End	Standard Biblical Sign	John of Gischala	THE FALSE PROPHET on page 13
#13	Revelation 12:7-9	War in Heaven	Standard Biblical Sign	Events Recorded by Josephus, Eusebius, Tacitus, and Others	ARMIES IN THE SKY AND VOICES IN THE TEMPLE on page 19
#14	Revelation 8:7 Revelation 11:19 Revelation 16:21	Talent Sized Hail	Standard Biblical Sign	Roman Catapult Stones of a Talent in Weight	GREAT HAIL on page 13
#15	Revelation 9:2-11	Locusts from the Pit	Standard Biblical Sign	Roman Seige of Jerusalem & Roman Scorpio Engines	LOCUSTS on page 15

LIST OF MODERN SIGNS

#	RELEVANT PASSAGE(S)	"SIGN"	PROPHECY BIBLICAL VALUE	FULFILLED BY	DETAILS
#1	[NONE]	Israel Becoming a Nation In 1948	Not in the Bible: Necessary if we assume the Tribulation is to come	[NONE]	THE STATE OF ISRAEL on page 30
#2	[NONE]	Third Temple	Not in the Bible: Necessary if we assume the Tribulation is to come	[NONE]	FINDING THE THIRD TEMPLE on page 30
#3	Revelation 16:12	Euphrates River Drying Up	Not A Stand-Alone Sign: Euphrates River rises and falls every year.	Euphrates Drying During the Jewish-Roman War	EUPHRATES DRYING on page 31
#4	[NONE]	Resumption of Sacrifice/Red Heifers	Not in the Bible: Necessary if we assume the Tribulation is to come	[NONE]	SACRIFICES END on page 31

In the end, only one of the signs we are seeing today is actually biblical. But it is also fulfilled on a regular basis and not a stand alone sign of the times. The other signs aren't biblical, and as of the end of 2025, only the Red Heifers have happened.

As someone who used to be awaiting the coming of the Beast and warning of his mark, I can tell you that there are currently none of these real biblical signs being fulfilled today. Many people are theorized to be the Beast, or the Antichrist, but no one actually fits the mark like Nero Caesar. And no one fits the role of the Antichrist. Obviously, there isn't even a Temple.

PART II: THE PHYSICAL

This section will focus on the evidence that presents itself in the world we see around us.
For the evidence contained in the Bible itself, please go to Part I.

THE NORTH POLE AND CHRIST

The Bible never says Christ retreats, Christ only reigns forever. Satan is released inside that His reign. And then at the end, Revelation says that it is Satan who goes up against the throne at the end of time:

And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and [Satan and his forces] compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them.

Revelation 20:7-9

Going at this from a physical side of things, we can assume that this must needs be a physical throne, because gathering a physical army means that a physical war is to be unleashed. One of the issues of the modern church is that it has conditioned Christians to believe that the Spiritual and physical are separated. But we know that God has a physical form in the Old Testament, we also know that His angels have bodies too. And Satan and his angels are shown being persons in Revelation. Satan being imprisoned for a thousand years on earth.

The idea that it is all non-physical is not biblical. It is a result of the knowledge of man. As we looked into space, we pushed God further out until He no longer lived in the physical. We pushed the angels and demons into a purely spirit world while we explored our physical world.

But the Bible even speaks of the throne of Jesus Christ being a physical throne. If were not so, why would Satan lead a physical army against it.

For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north:

Isaiah 14:13

Beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth, is mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King.

Psalms 48:2

For promotion cometh neither from the east, nor from the west, nor from the south. But God is the judge: he putteth down one, and setteth up another.

Psalms 75:6-7

Then the LORD said unto me, Out of the north an evil shall break forth upon all the inhabitants of the land.

Jeremiah 1:14

Gomer, and all his bands; the house of Togarmah of the north quarters, and all his bands: and many people with thee.

Ezekiel 38:6

What we get from these verses is:

- Supernatural troubles come from the North
- Promotion and blessing come from the North

- Mount Zion is in the North
- The Mount of the Congregation is in the North

When the Bible says "on the sides of the north" in Isaiah 14:13 the Hebrew actually says: bəyarkəṭē šāpōwn. The Hebrew phrase bəyarkəṭē šāpōwn literally means "in the sides/extremities of the north." And it can mean a couple different things depending on context.

1. A remote or exalted place: it can represent a location that is distant, hidden, or inaccessible, emphasizing separation from ordinary life.
2. A place of authority or significance: in some passages of the Bible, the "north" may symbolize a seat of power, assembly, or divine council. Many argue that this is not a physical throne but a figurative place of rulership that men of old ascribed a location to.
3. Spiritual meaning: it can signify hidden purposes of God, spiritual mystery, or places beyond human perception, where heavenly or cosmic forces operate.
4. Symbol of pride or ambition: in some contexts, the phrase highlights lofty ambition or elevated vantage points.

So bəyarkəṭē šāpōwn could absolutely be trying to convey a literal throne or literal geographic point. Modern man, through discovery, has ruled out the idea of a superpower in the north, so it has become common practice to believe these passages to be symbolic.

Is the Bible trying to convey a physical place? The modern church would scream no. But lets look and see what ancient cultures believed.

RUPES NIGRA

Across ancient civilizations, many cultures envisioned the world as divided into four lands and rivers radiating from a central sacred point, often associated with mountains or cosmic axes. Each culture also attributed particular significance to the north, linking it to divinity, cosmic order, or immortality:

- Biblical and Semitic tradition: the Garden of Eden lies at the center, with rivers flowing outward; the north is linked to lands such as Havilah and Cush, often seen as distant or exalted regions, symbolically aligned with divine presence.
- Mesopotamia: the north was associated with sacred mountains and the source of the four rivers (Tigris, Euphrates, Pishon, and Gihon) flowing to the four corners of the world. Kings claimed authority over all lands, with the north symbolically representing divine oversight and cosmic stability.
- Hindu and Vedic cosmology: mount Meru rises toward the northern apex of the world, sending rivers in four directions; the north is considered the holiest direction, the seat of gods, and the origin of cosmic order.
- Persian and Zoroastrian cosmology: the sacred mountain Hara Berezaiti in the north is the source of rivers flowing outward; the north represents the realm of divine beings and the origin of cosmic light and order.

- Ancient Greek tradition: myths of the Hyperboreans place a blessed people far in the north, living under Apollo's favor; the north is seen as a remote, sacred, and timeless region.
- Chinese and Tibetan cosmology: northern mountains and rivers symbolize the emperor's connection to heaven; the north is the direction of the North Star, representing stability, immortality, and cosmic authority.
- Mesoamerican (Aztec and Maya): sacred mountains or world trees send rivers to the four cardinal directions; the north is associated with particular deities or ancestral realms, often linked to guidance, protection, or cosmic cycles.

In all of these traditions, the north was treated as a sacred or exalted direction, often the location of divine origin or cosmic authority. Despite arising independently across unconnected cultures, the repeated emphasis on the north as a source of spiritual and cosmic power highlights a widespread human tendency to organize the world along cardinal directions and attribute special significance to the northern regions.

With the Bible referencing the North, ancient cultures connecting it with the divine, it has caused some to believe that perhaps that is where Jesus Christ rules earth (see CHRIST ISN'T IN JERUSALEM on page 40 to explore more locations that Jesus Christ could be reigning from).

ONE-THIRD BURNT UP

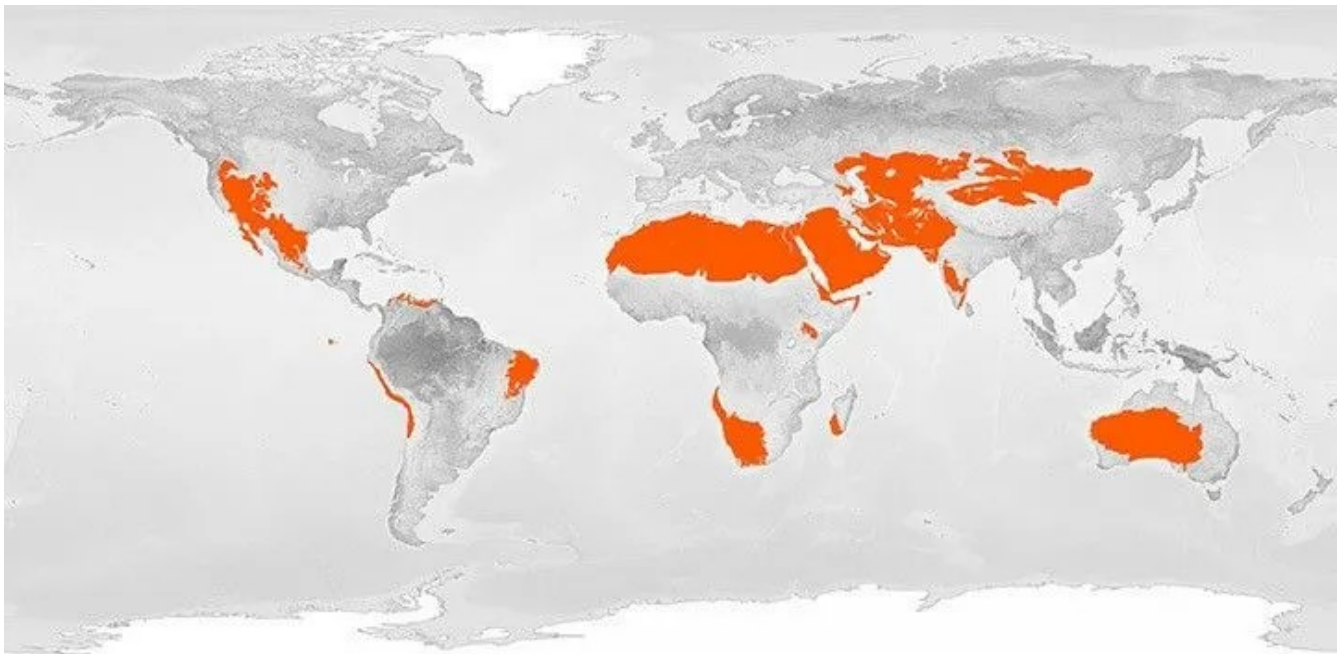

Revelation states that one-third of the earth will be burnt up:

The first angel sounded, and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

Revelation 8:7

If this already happened (assuming it is a worldwide occurrence), we would expect what? Well, perhaps everything recovered and is back to normal by now. But, might we see enormous stretches of desert?

Well, if we would, we do. The Bible says 33% of the trees would be burnt up by fire. And as of 2026, 33% of the earth is classified desert.

This is a map of deserts according to NASA⁰¹. While I may not trust NASA, most people do and they can be checked (and have been checked) on this information.

This isn't absolute proof. But it absolutely backs the idea of the Tribulation being a past event. It isn't proof, it's a coincidence.

THOUSAND YEAR GAP

Before roughly 1000 to 1300 AD, there is a lot of evidence related problems. Here's a short list of the anomalies inside this time period:

- Few surviving documents
- Most writings are only later copies
- Little surviving architecture from the era
- Very few recorded rulers or events
- Thin archaeological layers between Rome and medieval times
- Sudden population growth after 1000 AD
- Sudden surge in building after 1000 AD
- Early medieval chronicles start very late
- Byzantine records for 400-900 AD are sparse
- Chinese timelines in this era appear compressed
- Most science/theology works only survive in post-1000 AD copies
- Early medieval artifacts lack clear dating context
- Genealogies before 900 AD are fragmentary or legendary
- Calendar and dating disputes cluster around this era
- Big cultural shift from "Roman world" to "medieval world" with little in between

With all this evidence (assuming it is true, as it will soon be verified), you are left with a huge gap in time. Anywhere from about 300 to 1300 years of gap.

PHANTOM TIME

The strongest revisionist chronology arguments do not begin with wild speculation. They begin with a simple observation: the accepted historical timeline becomes dramatically weaker, thinner, and less physically grounded the farther back one goes before roughly 1000 AD.

Heribert Illig focused on approximately 297 phantom years between 614 AD and 911 AD, but researchers such as Anatoly Fomenko^{P1} argued that the problem is much larger and may involve well over 1000 years of duplicated or artificially stretched history.

The deeper issue is that mainstream chronology is often treated as though it rests on hard physical proof when, in reality, enormous portions of ancient and early medieval dating depend upon copied manuscripts, reconstructed king lists, church chronologies, and synchronization systems developed centuries after the events supposedly occurred. Once this is understood, the possibility of major chronological inflation becomes far more reasonable than historians are willing to admit.

Illig's calendar argument remains one of the clearest starting points because it involves direct mathematics rather than interpretation. The Julian calendar gains approximately one day every 128 years^{P2} because the year length used by Julius Caesar's reform was slightly inaccurate. From 45 BC to 1582 AD, roughly 1627 years passed. That amount of drift should equal approximately 12.7 days. Yet when Pope Gregory XIII corrected the calendar in 1582, only 10 days were removed.

Illeg argued that this missing 2.7 to 3 days corresponds almost exactly to about 300 nonexistent years. This is not vague symbolism. It is arithmetic. Mainstream historians answer by claiming that the Gregorian reform targeted the Council of Nicaea in 325 AD rather than Caesar's original reform, but revisionists point out that this explanation itself reveals how unstable chronological anchoring actually is.

The fact remains that the accepted timeline requires multiple adjustments and interpretive qualifications simply to maintain internal consistency.

PHYSICAL LAYERS

The archaeological evidence becomes even more serious when examined honestly. Many people point to the extreme thinness of physical remains from large portions of the early medieval period.

If Europe truly experienced uninterrupted civilization for centuries between the fall of Rome and the High Middle Ages, then the physical accumulation should be enormous.

Human societies generate layers constantly through construction, demolition, trash disposal, burials, road rebuilding, industrial residue, pottery transitions, and sediment disturbance. Roman cities often produce occupation layers many feet thick from only a few centuries of dense habitation. In many ancient Near Eastern tells, buildup rates average roughly 1.5 to 3 feet per century during active occupation.

But, if we use a far lower urban accumulation rate of only 4 to 8 inches per century, an additional 300 phantom years should still leave roughly 1 to 2 feet of extra material, while 1,000 additional years could produce 3 to 6 feet or more of measurable buildup in continuously occupied zones.

By contrast, the visible early medieval accumulation between late Roman and later medieval layers can sometimes appear to be only several inches to perhaps 1 to 3 feet total, depending on the location and excavation area. This only accounts for about 1,000 of the last supposed 2,000 years.

DUPLICATED EVENTS

Fomenko expanded this criticism beyond archaeology and into statistical structure itself. He argued that many ancient and medieval dynasties appear mathematically duplicated. His work compared reign lengths, succession patterns, civil wars, assassinations, betrayals, military campaigns, and political timelines across supposedly separate civilizations.

According to Fomenko, these sequences often align too closely to dismiss as coincidence. He pointed to repeated ruler patterns where long stable reigns are followed by short chaotic successions, internal coups, assassinations, restoration wars, and dynastic collapse in nearly identical order.

One of his best-known claims was that parts of Roman imperial history statistically mirror the later Byzantine Empire when shifted in time. He also argued that the histories of ancient Israel and medieval European dynasties contain matching reign-length distributions and parallel political crises.

In some comparisons, Fomenko claimed correlations remained strong across sequences of 10 to 15 rulers, with reign lengths differing by only a few years after chronological shifting. He argued that many ancient narratives are actually medieval events copied backward and assigned new names. In his analysis, Roman imperial history, Byzantine history, biblical kingdoms, and medieval European dynasties repeatedly mirror each other in structure. Revisionists argue that when multiple dynasties contain nearly identical reign patterns, succession crises, and military timelines over centuries, duplication becomes a simpler explanation than repeated coincidence.

LACK OF EVIDENCE

The manuscript problem may be the single greatest weakness in conventional chronology. Many texts considered foundational to ancient history do not survive in original form. In numerous cases, the earliest surviving copy of a supposedly ancient work comes from the 9th, 10th, 11th, or even 14th century. Historians then date the contents backward based on tradition, references in other texts, and assumptions about authorship.

Revisionists argue that this creates a closed loop with no independent anchor. A manuscript is accepted as ancient because later scholars said it copied an ancient work, while the existence of the ancient work is defended because the manuscript exists. This is not hard proof. It is inherited trust.

Fomenko repeatedly argued that chronology is built largely from retrospective reconstruction carried out by church scholars during the Renaissance and early modern period. He believed much of what modern civilization calls “ancient history” was organized and standardized between the 16th and 18th centuries.

Astronomical dating is often presented as the final defense of mainstream chronology, but revisionists argue that this area may actually expose the deepest problems.

Fomenko analyzed eclipse records and astronomical descriptions found in ancient texts and concluded that many fit medieval dates better than ancient ones. Since eclipses can be calculated precisely backward, this becomes a potentially powerful line of evidence. If a text describes a solar eclipse, planetary alignment, or star position that only matches the sky of a later century, then either the event was misdated or the chronology attached to the document is wrong.

Revisionists argue that historians too often assume the traditional date first and then force astronomical interpretation into agreement afterward. Fomenko instead treated astronomy as an external test of chronology and concluded that many accepted ancient dates collapse under examination.

The issue becomes even larger when considering how suddenly the historical record becomes clearer after roughly 1000 AD. Before that point, records are sparse, fragmented, copied repeatedly, and often contradictory. After that point, documentation density rises dramatically. Architecture expands rapidly. Legal records multiply. Financial systems become easier to trace. Population evidence increases. Revisionists argue that this sharp transition does not resemble normal historical development. It resembles the point at which chronology finally enters securely documented territory. Everything before that becomes increasingly unstable and dependent upon reconstruction.

This is one reason why some researchers moved beyond Illig's missing 297 years and began arguing for far larger chronological inflation. If the foundational structure before 1000 AD is already weak, duplicated, and dependent on late manuscripts, then the possibility that entire ancient eras were artificially expanded becomes difficult to dismiss outright.

One of the most important points made by revisionists is that mainstream chronology is not "directly observed history." It is a model assembled from fragments. King lists were merged together. Religious chronologies were synchronized. Oral traditions were written centuries later. Documents were recopied endlessly inside institutions that had political and theological motives for constructing continuous historical legitimacy.

Once enough assumptions become embedded into the system, the chronology begins to appear solid simply because every part references every other part. Revisionists argue that this creates the illusion of certainty. The deeper one investigates the actual foundations of ancient dating, the more one discovers that the accepted timeline often rests not on direct evidence, but on chains of interpretation built on top of other interpretations.

TARTARIA

Tartaria is the idea that there was once (in the last few thousand years) a global, or mostly global, form of government. The non-believers claim it as Tartaria, a near worldwide government with technologies beyond ours. To Christians who believe Christ has already reigned, this is remnants of Christ's millennial reign and His worldwide governing glory.

And this evidence is so prevalent that non-believers subscribe to the theory, not for biblical reasons, but because of the physical evidence. Here is the physical evidences that are claimed by the theory:

- Mudflood buildings with buried floors
- Oversized doors and giant arches
- Spires and domes said to be free-energy devices
- Star forts around the world
- Orphan trains after the supposed reset
- World's Fair "instant cities"
- Construction timelines said to be impossible
- Old maps labeling "Great Tartary"
- Uniform architecture across continents
- Massive ancient canals and earthworks

GENGHIS KHAN

Revelation says this about the White horse and rider:

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

Revelation 6:2

There is the idea that Genghis Khan might possibly be this rider. Here's why:

The first odd thing is the fact that Genghis Khan means: Universal Ruler, Oceanic Ruler, or Great Khan. But this is merely a name.

The verse says he goes "forth conquering, and to conquer." And Genghis Khan went from Mongolia outward into China, Central Asia, Persia, and Eastern Europe. Entire kingdoms collapsed quickly before him. And because of him, the Mongol Empire became the largest contiguous land empire in history.

Revelation 6:2 also states that he had a bow. And specifically, Genghis Khan and his army were known for:

- Mounted archery
- Composite bows
- Horseback warfare
- Long-range cavalry attacks

Obviously, this also fits with the fact that it is talking about a white horse and Genghis Khan and his army were horse riders and known for exactly that.

Just from this, Genghis checks three qualities: he conquered using a horse and bow.

The Mongol Tengri belief includes something where God gave Genghis Khan the authority to conquer all nations. Genghis Khan allegedly said (best reconstruction):

Eternal Heaven has chosen me. The nations are given into my hand. Heaven has decreed that I bring order to the world and subdue those who resist. By the will of Heaven, I shall conquer.

With all this, people align Revelation 6:2 like this:

- White horse: Genghis Khan's horse conquest culture
- Bow: the Mongol archers
- Crown given: Heaven-appointed ruler
- Conquering: his massive world conquest

And just from this, Genghis Khan fits most of the points. And on top of this all, Genghis Khan (although officially not on purpose) spread Christianity like wildfire across the world.

THE TIME ISSUE

The mainstream historical agreement is that Genghis Khan was born between 1155 AD and 1167 AD. This puts him far too far along in the timeline to be connected to the Tribulation if it happened in the first century. At least it should.

Here's the thing. There are piles of evidence suggesting that anywhere between 250 to 1,300 years have been artificially added to our timeline. There is research suggesting that many of the events before 1300 AD are possibly duplicated events.

If this is remotely true, it could realistically place Genghis Khan in the first century.

CONCLUSION

This theory does not claim that Genghis Khan was Christ. While some believe it is possible, the Bible never states the White horse to be Christ or not. Some even believe that this figure is demonic or even the Antichrist. But these are all speculation. What is known, is only what I've shown you here. Genghis Khan really seems to fit, regardless of who the White horse rider was.

WHY DOES THIS MATTER?

Do not read this if you are not familiar with the rest of this paper. This will likely strike you as dismissal of evidence if you haven't read certain parts of this paper before hand.

When I started this paper, I thought this was about a fun theory. One that changes the game, but only so much. I still await the Lord's return, I still wait for perfection, and I still know that God is in control. But I also am aware that the Tribulation already happened. I can see that there are some things that aren't true and some things that are. But for a while I didn't believe this to be consequential.

I used to think this was just a historical theory. I told myself that you don't need history to be saved. The Bible makes it clear that you don't.

And because of that, I stayed here. Content, not worried. Satan's Little Season wasn't a big deal. It was fun, exciting, but of no grand importance.

Then, one day I realized: we still are seeing the world set up for what appears to be a Tribulation.

This changes everything. If Satan is in control right now, and everyone is reading Revelation wrong. He could set up a false Tribulation and play everything out the way people expect at this point. And this is so dangerous. Because if Satan fakes a Tribulation, Antichrist, and the beast, then he could fake the "Christ" at the end of it.

If Satan is playing with a fake Tribulation. He could play out everything like he knows we think it goes. And to trick Christians into following an antichrist, he would only need a second antichrist at the end of this fake Tribulation.

And if the modern Christians end up going through what they perceive as the Tribulation of Revelation, then they will quickly bow to the character who they perceive as Christ at the end of it.

And if this happens, the fact that we don't know our history may be our very downfall.

To a lot of people, this sounds like me saying that I see the evidence of the Tribulation all around us. And that I'm just making it a false Tribulation out of convenience to this argument. But that isn't what I'm doing. I am looking around, and while I do see evidences. They are directly unbiblical. They look exactly how one would fake the Tribulation and the end times.

The Bible never said the Temple would be built a third time. But if one was to fake the Tribulation, they would have to build another. And the same thing for the state of Israel, and the Sacrifices, and so much more.

These things were already fulfilled, this by default makes the modern events a fake copy. But on top of that these events were never prophesied. They were never in the Bible. This is why I see a false Tribulation. This is why I fear the coming of a false messiah. A false messiah who comes after a false Tribulation.

And if Christians just knew our history, biblical history, I would not fear this.

SOURCES

* Indicates a topic or source that was uncovered with the help of an AI model (ChatGPT, Grok, etc.). The facts and sources themselves are independently studied and verified by the author. No AI model is taken at it's word.

Email LanthanoResearch@protonmail.com if you would like to ask a question, found an error throughout this paper, or have more evidence you would like to present to me (regarding either side of the debate).

WRITTEN WORKS

QUOTING JOSEPHUS The Jewish War, Books 1 thru 7:

<https://www.gutenberg.org/files/2850/2850-h/2850-h.htm#link62HCH0007>

QUOTING EUSEBIUS Ecclesiastical History, Book 3:

<https://www.newadvent.org/fathers/250103.htm>

QUOTING TACITUS Histories, Book 5:

https://penelope.uchicago.edu/Thayer/E/Roman/Texts/Tacitus/Histories/5A*.html

TRIBULATION SIGNS

[C1] Nero Caesar, 666: <https://academic.oup.com/jts/article/76/1/109/8043235?login=false>,
<https://hts.org.za/index.php/hts/article/download/6480/18945>,
<https://americanvision.org/10369/calculating-the-number-of-the-beast/>

[C2] The fall of Jerusalem and the destruction of the Temple:
<chrome-extension://efaidnbmnnnibpcajpcglclefindmkaj/https://commonsensation.net/wp-content/uploads/2021/12/The-Number-of-the-Beast-in-Revelation-13-in-Light-of-Papyri-Graf.pdf?.com>, https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Siege_of_Jerusalem_\(70_CE\))

DEBUNKING COMMON ARGUMENTS

[L1] 1614 Alcázar scanned book, Counter-Reformation context, and Grotius 1640 preterism note: https://archive.org/details/bub_gb_CtAZOb6Ew3UC,
<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Preterism>, <https://www.pwmi.org/mainsite/burning-questions/Q17-is-it-true-that-spanish-jesuits-formulated-the-preterist-and-futurist-interpretations-of-the-book-of-Revelation>

ONE-THIRD BURNT UP

[O1] NASA calculations regarding earths deserts: <https://science.nasa.gov/kids/earth/mission-biomes/biodesert/>

1,000 YEAR GAP

[P1] Fomenko writings:

<https://archive.org/details/AnatolyFomenkoBooks/DatingPtolemysAlmagestByAnatolyFomenko/page/n63/mode/2up>

[P2] Gregorian calendar reform: <https://www.britannica.com/topic/Gregorian-calendar>

TABLE OF CONTENTS

NOTES.....	2
PART I: BIBLICAL.....	3
70 WEEKS.....	4
TIMELINE.....	5
THIS GENERATION SHALL NOT PASS.....	7
TRIBULATION SIGNS.....	9
THE BEAST.....	9
THE MARK OF THE BEAST.....	10
FOREHEAD OR RIGHT HAND.....	10
ABOMINATION DESOLATION OF THE TEMPLE.....	11
GREAT TRIBULATION AND MASSIVE DISTRESS.....	11
3.5 YEAR TRIBULATION.....	12
FALSE MIRACLES.....	12
DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM AND TEMPLE.....	12
THE FALSE PROPHET.....	13
GREAT HAIL.....	13
TWO WITNESSES.....	14
BABYLON THE GREAT.....	14
LOCUSTS.....	15
CONCLUSION.....	17
COMING BACK SOON.....	18
FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS.....	19
ARMIES IN THE SKY AND VOICES IN THE TEMPLE.....	19
BIBLICAL PROPHECY ON THE MATTER.....	20
OTHER SIGNS IN THE TEMPLE.....	21
CLARIFIED PASSAGES.....	23
RESTRAINING FORCE.....	23
BINDING THE STRONG MAN.....	24
SATAN FALLING.....	24
ELIJAH ALREADY CAME.....	26
SEALING PROPHECY.....	27

FOUR RESURRECTIONS?	28
FALSE SIGNS OF THE TIMES	30
THE STATE OF ISRAEL	30
FINDING THE THIRD TEMPLE	30
SACRIFICES END	31
EUPHRATES DRYING	31
THE IMPOSSIBILITY OF A THIRD TEMPLE	33
CHRIST'S REIGN	34
1,000 YEARS?	34
CHRIST NEVER RETREATS	35
WHERE ARE WE?	36
HOW LONG IS THE LITTLE SEASON	36
DEBUNKING COMMON ARGUMENTS	38
SATAN MORE POWERFUL THAN GOD	38
WE DON'T LIVE OVER 100	39
PEACEFUL ANIMALS	39
WHERE IS THE NEW JERUSALEM	39
WHY IS THERE STILL SEA?	39
THERE'S NO HOPE	39
MAKING IT A LONG SEASON	40
CHRIST ISN'T IN JERUSALEM	40
NO ONE BELIEVED THIS BEFORE	41
WHERE'S THE ONE LANGUAGE?	42
REVELATION WAS WRITTEN IN 95 AD	42
THIS IS HERETICAL	43
IT ISN'T THE WHOLE WORLD	44
STARS FALLING FROM HEAVEN	45
DUAL PROPHECY	46
OVERVIEW OF PROPHECY	48
LIST OF MAIN EVENTS	48
DETAILED LIST OF EVENTS	49
LIST OF MODERN SIGNS	51
PART II: THE PHYSICAL	52
THE NORTH POLE AND CHRIST	53

RUPES NIGRA.....	55
ONE-THIRD BURNT UP.....	57
THOUSAND YEAR GAP.....	58
PHANTOM TIME.....	58
PHYSICAL LAYERS.....	59
DUPLICATED EVENTS.....	59
LACK OF EVIDENCE.....	60
TARTARIA.....	62
GENGHIS KHAN.....	63
THE TIME ISSUE.....	64
CONCLUSION.....	64
WHY DOES THIS MATTER?.....	65
SOURCES.....	67
WRITTEN WORKS.....	67
TRIBULATION SIGNS.....	67
DEBUNKING COMMON ARGUMENTS.....	67
ONE-THIRD BURNT UP.....	67
1,000 YEAR GAP.....	68

~710 BC

...the vision of all [that is to come] is become unto you as the words of a book that is sealed. . .
Isaiah 29:11

~605 BC

...O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end:
Daniel 12:4

~40 AD

...Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand.

Revelation 22:10